Ridgewood Grammar II:

Artikulation und Phonematik des H Werliand Merlingen, 1977 Displaced Persons: an Immigrant Journey to America
Richard E. Fuerch, 2014-03-10 After growing up and hearing many stories about his parents' experiences in Europe before and after World War II Richard E. Fuerch decided that he had to preserve these stories for his family. He took on the task of interviewing his parents, taking elaborate notes and weaving a narrative from what he had assembled. The initial product was a forty-page binder comprising a brief retelling of the stories that were told to him. After many years he decided to put it all together in the form of a book. This is the story of my parents, their family history in Poland and Czechoslovakia, their survival of World War II, their refugee experience in the wake of the devastation of the war and their eventual immigration from war-torn Europe to the United States of America. I wrote this book because I wanted to document their incredible story for my siblings, my children and my niece and nephew. While their's was an oft-repeated, commonly experienced voyage through life, it is one that is rarely told, especially within the context of the horrible tragedy that was World War II. Catalogue - Harvard University Harvard University, 1926 The Harvard University Catalogue
Harvard University, 1926 Credential Market Quentin Maier, 2021-09-22 This book makes an original contribution to credential sociology by analysing how high school certificates become and remain valuable in a context of mass high school participation, i.e. credentialism. Building on a detailed analysis of the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma, a senior secondary school certificate offered in over 150 countries, Quentin Maier argues that the advent of new private credentials can be understood as a phenomenon of credential stratification in a context of intensified academic competition. Using original data on high school credentials in Australia and internationally, the author makes a strong case for certificates to be studied relationally by locating them in the credentialing structures in which they are inserted. He systematically applies the comparative method to explain the role of the curriculum, family resources, school segregation and higher education selection in creating a credential hierarchy. His robust combination of theoretical construction and detailed empirical work allows him to offer new insights into social inequality in education systems, credential theory and the IB Diploma.
