Thomas, Robert L. Kelly, 2007 This new brief edition pairs two of archaeology's most recognized names David Hurst Thomas of the American Museum of Natural History and Robert L. Kelly of the University of Wyoming to bring a passionate down-to-earth introduction to archaeological method and theory to the classroom. Designed both for students who intend on pursuing a career in archaeology as well as those who do not, the authors give students a more immediate concrete impression of what the practice of archaeology is all about. They include well-chosen examples that show how archaeologists have worked through actual problems in the field and in the lab. After using this text, students will be better able to ask questions, solve problems, and discern truth from fiction. Students will not only learn about the nature of archaeological data and how archaeologists do such things as archaeological survey and excavation; they will also develop their sense of scientific logic and gain a better understanding of what career opportunities are available for archaeologists. This edition is enhanced with new pedagogical features, many more photos, and a completely new design to help students prioritize and learn the material presented. A rich array of supplemental resources includes a new companion website as well as the option to use a new CD-ROM. DOING FIELDWORK: ARCHAEOLOGICAL DEMONSTRATIONS, also developed by the authors.
