

Worthy Institution shows Remarkable growth

LATE CARRIE A. TUGGLE, Founder

MRS. LENA M. BRINSON, Present Head

To all those who are interested in the care of the sick, and the education of orphans, as well as to the loyal members of the Order of Rising Sons and Daughters of Protection, the story of the growth of Tuggle Institute, founded by the late Carrie A. Tuggle, is well known. They are familiar with the story of how this beloved woman, with a band of sympathetic friends, organized the Order of Rising Sons and Daughters of Protection twenty years ago to support the Tuggle Institute and the Orphanage on Enon Ridge, which organization she also founded.

In the face of untold hardships this institution has grown to be a powerful Order with nearly a hundred Lodges over the State and steadily increasing membership. The good that is being done by this organization is recognized by all and is a credit to the Order and to its founder. In the well known Tuggle Institute, orphans are being educated so that they may be given a fair start in life and may become honorable, self supporting men and women. Through the Endowment Fund the sick and disabled are cared for, the dead are given a tender and proper burial and their beneficiaries are paid handsome amounts to take care of their needs.

The Order has also established a Juvenile Department, with Mrs. P. A. Green as Grand Matron, and

Dr. R. T. Brown as Grand Medical Registrar. It is very pleasing to note the keen interest the younger members are manifesting in regard to their department of this this worthy Order, and under these able directors they are being trained to carry on the work of their elders when the time comes.

This State-wide organization is worthy of highest praise for their ministrations to those in distress and need. There is no nobler work than that of caring for the suffering, and the Order of Rising Sons and Daughters of Protection should have our whole-hearted support. The officers of the Grand Lodge are listed below.
