Rising Wealth In Equality And Change:

Changing Inequalities in Rich Countries Wiemer Salverda, Brian Nolan, Daniele Checchi, Ive Marx, Abigail McKnight, István György Tóth, Herman van de Werfhorst, 2014-01-30 There has been a remarkable upsurge of debate about increasing inequalities and their societal implications reinforced by the economic crisis but bubbling to the surface before it This has been seen in popular discourse media coverage political debate and research in the social sciences The central questions addressed by this book and the major research project GINI on which it is based are Have inequalities in income wealth and education increased over the past 30 years or so across the rich countries and if so why What are the social cultural and political impacts of increasing inequalities in income wealth and education What are the implications for policy and for the future development of welfare states In seeking to answer these questions this book adopts an interdisciplinary approach that draws on economics sociology and political science and applies this approach to learning from the experiences over the last three decades of European countries together with the USA Japan Canada Australia and South Korea It combines comparative research with lessons from specific country experiences and highlights the challenges in seeking to adequately assess the factors underpinning increasing inequalities and to identify the channels through which these may impact on key social and political outcomes as well as the importance of framing inequality trends and impacts in the institutional and policy context of the country in question

The Changing Shape of the Nation's Income Distribution, 1947-1998

Arthur F. Jones, Daniel H. Weinberg, 2000 Poverty and Social Developments in Peru, 1994-1997, 1999 Where when and how much to invest in wastewater treatment is a policy decision that presents many challenges and is not properly addressed in most situations worldwide The most common situations are unfortunately those in which no treatment is provided at all The integration of wastewater management and pollution control interventions and policies within the broader water resources management policy are essential for achieving the efficient use of the scarce resource available With that in mind this paper has three objectives Emphasize the need for systematic evaluation of wastewater management actions and investments as part of any water resources management initiative Define the conceptual framework that should guide the analysis process Identify and explore techniques appropriate to this analysis The ultimate purpose of the paper is to provide a general approach to developing and implementing wastewater management interventions Its scope is determined by two main considerations i the need to incorporate the general principles that determine water resources management policies into the design and selection of wastewater management and pollution control interventions and ii the need to address water quality problems at the appropriate geographical scale

Rising Income Inequality Chris Papageorgiou, Subir Lall, Florence Jaumotte, 2008-07 We examine the relationship between trade and financial globalization and the rise in inequality in most countries in recent decades We find technological progress as having a greater impact than globalization on inequality The limited overall impact of globalization reflects two offsetting tendencies whereas trade globalization is associated with a reduction in inequality financial globalization and foreign direct investment in particular is associated with an increase A key finding is that both globalization and technological changes increase the returns on human capital underscoring the importance of education and training in both developed and developing countries in addressing rising inequality

Rethinking Society for the 21st Century: Volume 1, Socio-Economic Transformations International Panel on Social Progress (IPSP),2018-07-19 This is the first of three volumes containing a report from the International Panel on Social Progress IPSP The IPSP is an independent association of top research scholars with the goal of assessing methods for improving the main institutions of modern societies Written in accessible language by scholars across the social sciences and humanities these volumes assess the achievements of world societies in past centuries the current trends the dangers that we are now facing and the possible futures in the twenty first century It covers the main socio economic political and cultural dimensions of social progress global as well as regional issues and the diversity of challenges and their interplay around the world This particular volume covers topics such as economic inequality and growth finance and corporations labor capitalism and social justice Growing Wealth, Inequality, and Housing in the United States Xiao Di Zhu,2007 California's Rising Income Inequality Deborah Reed,1999 Rising Wealth Inequality and Changing Social Structure in Rural China, 1988-1995 Terry McKinley,Mark D. Brenner,1999 Based on a sample of 10 259 and 67 186 households from respectively the 1988 and 1995 household surveys Fundamental Economic and Social Change Georges Heinrich,2000

Neoliberalism, Globalization, and Inequalities Vicente Navarro,2007 Since U S President Reagan and U K Prime Minister Thatcher a major ideology under the name of economic science has been expanded worldwide that claims that the best policies to stimulate human development are those that reduce the role of the state in economic and social lives privatizing public services and public enterprises deregulating the mobility of capital and labor eliminating protectionism and reducing public social protection This ideology called neoliberalism has guided the globalization of economic activity and become the conventional wisdom in international agencies and institutions such as the IMF World Bank World Trade Organization and the technical agencies of the United Nations including the WHO Reproduced in the Washington consensus in the United States and the Brussels consensus in the European Union this ideology has guided policies widely accepted as the only ones possible and advisable This book assembles a series of articles that challenge that ideology Written by well known scholars these articles question each of the tenets of neoliberal doctrine showing how the policies guided by this ideology have adversely affected human development in the countries where they have been implemented The Impact of Changes in Household Forms on Income Inequality Marco Albertini,2003 China, India and Southeast Asia Edmund Terence Gomez,Kee Cheok Cheong,Vamsi Vakulabharanam,2018-12-07 This volume studies the outcomes of the two way flow of investments and people between China and India and Southeast Asia These cross border flows have led to new settlements in Southeast Asia from which new outlooks have emerged among locally born generations that have given rise to new forms of solidarity and identification The advent of new generations of ethnic Chinese and Indians in Southeast Asia with no ties to China or India has spawned important debates about identity shifts which have not been registered by government leaders in Southeast Asia China and India as reflected in policy statements and investment patterns Identity changes are assessed in forms where they best manifest themselves in social life and in business ventures forged or unsuccessfully nurtured through tie ups involving foreign and domestic capital A state society distinction is employed to determine how the governments of these rapidly developing countries envision development through state intervention as well as with the employment of highly entrepreneurial ethnic groups and the outcomes of this on their societies and on their economies The chapters were originally published as a special issue in The Round Table

The Changing Nature of Wage Inequality Thomas Lemieux,2007 The paper reviews recent developments in the literature on wage inequality with a particular focus on why inequality growth has been particularly concentrated in the top end of the wage distribution over the last 15 years Several possible institutional and demand side explanations are discussed for the secular growth in wage inequality in the United States and other advanced industrialized countries The paper concludes that three promising explanations for the growth in top end wage inequality are de unionization the increased prevalence of pay for performance and changes in the relative demand for the types of tasks performed by workers in high paying occupations
