Risks And Problem Behaviors In Adolescence:

Risks and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Richard M. Lerner, Christine M. Ohannessian, 2014-02-04 The articles in this volume illustrate how development is propelled by the bidirectional relations that occur between the person and all levels of the context The authors argue that adolescent life is embedded in a complicated developmental system involving multiple features of the individual e g biology emotions personality and cognition and the multiple levels of his or her social ecology e g peers family school the workplace and the public policy and legal systems that structure and impact behavioural opportunities for and the actions of adolescents These articles have important implications for the design of interventions aimed at adolescent problem behaviours

Risk Behaviors in Maltreated Adolescents Heather Nicole Taussig, 1998 Maltreated youth are at risk of experiencing a host of short and long term consequences Although many studies have examined these outcomes few have examined the impact of maltreatment prospectively to determine what early responses might predict later functioning The current study examined risk behaviors in a cohort of adolescents who were removed from their homes as a result of maltreatment approximately five years ago Shortly after their removal the youth and their caretakers were interviewed about the youth s emotional social and behavioral functioning The current study re interviewed those youth to determine their involvement in four domains of risk behavior sexual delinquent substance use and self destructive behaviors Information collected during the initial interview Time 1 was used to explore whether specific vulnerability and protective factors predicted differential engagement in risk behaviors The majority of the eligible subjects were located and interviewed 75% n 149 The interviewed group of subjects did not differ from the non interviewed group in any systematic ways Descriptive analyses suggested that this cohort of youth had engaged in a substantial number of risk behaviors which were related to experiencing a host of negative consequences The four domains of risk behavior loaded on a single factor that accounted for 65% of the variance supporting the concept of a unitary construct of risk behavior Bivariate analyses suggested that risk behaviors were positively correlated r range .17-.66 with negative outcomes e g pregnancies arrests residential treatment The analyses also suggested that the Time 1 variables were related to current engagement in risk behaviors For example higher levels of externalizing behaviors and posttraumatic stress and lower levels of parental support were related to increased involvement in risk behaviors in adolescence r range .16-.52 Hierarchical regression models demonstrated that a significant proportion of the variance in risk behaviors was accounted for by the overall models R² range .10-.36 with the predictor variables significant over and above the control variables R² change range .05-.25 These findings have implications for the specificity versus generality of risk behaviors debate The limitations of the study as well as the implications of these findings for intervention efforts were discussed

High Risk

Behavior Sequences in Adolescents Lisa Michelle Guerra,1998 The Relationship Between Risk Factors and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Heejung Chun,2007 This investigation addressed adolescents problem behaviors such as school failure violence and substance use along with casual sex by identifying a general risk factor and a general problem behavior factor In this study the data were derived from a nationally representative dataset commonly called ADD Health dataset The participants were 6504 adolescents in grades 7 through 12 Testing three research questions and one research hypothesis the existences of the general risk factor and the general problem behavior factor were supported In addition the hypothesized model that describes the influence of the general risk factor on the general problem behavior factor was supported indicating a strong close relationship between these two latent factors Lastly the hypothesized model was tested with multiple group analyses for gender grade level and ethnic racial groups The interlinked nature of the risk statuses shared and unique variances of individual problem behaviors and the implications of the study to prevention and intervention programs are discussed Risk-taking Behaviors Among Adolescent Males and Utilization of Contraception Suzanne T. Kotkin-Jaszi,1993 Adolescent Health Risk Behavior Allison Schettini Evans,2003 Sexual Risk Behavior in Adolescence and the Transition to Adulthood Stevenson Fergus,2005 Substance Use and Academic Experiences During Adolescence Alison Louise Bryant,2000 Characteristics of Emotional and Behavioral Disorders of Children and Youth James M. Kauffman,2001 For the introductory characteristics course in Behavior Disorders This market leading text provides a comprehensive up to date research based introduction to emotional and behavioral disorders It describes all major types of disorders across the age range of preschooler through adolescent and is organized around five basic concepts the nature of disorders and the conceptual approaches to them assessment major casual factors facets of disordered emotion and behavior and a personal statement about teaching students with these disorders It effectively links research in child development psychology and special education directly to the work of the classroom teacher The Relationship Between Parenting Behaviors and Sexual Risk-taking Behavior Among Adolescent Males and Females Kathleen Boyce Rodgers,1995 Psychological Issues Related to Child Maltreatment ,1995 Adolescents and Risk Patrick B. Johnson,Micheline S. Malow-Iroff,2008-03-30 This work informs parents teachers and adolescents about the types of risks adolescents frequently take why they do so and what can be done to prevent or intervene in such activities Reducing Adolescent Risk Daniel Romer,2003-04-10 Reducing Adolescent Risk Toward an Integrated Approach focuses on common influences that result in a number of interrelated risk behaviors in order to design more unified comprehensive prevention strategies Edited by Daniel Romer this book summarizes presentations and discussions held at the Adolescent Risk Communication Institute of the University of Pennsylvania Annenberg Public Policy Center Concentrating on common causes for varied risk behaviors a group of leading researchers and intervention specialists from different health traditions synthesize current knowledge about risks to adolescent health in several areas including drugs and alcohol tobacco unprotected sex suicide and depression and gambling Primarily intended for graduate students scholars and researchers in psychology sociology social work and public health Reducing Adolescent Risk is also an extraordinary resource for policy makers in government organizations and foundations School Psychology Review ,1998 Adolescent Nutritional Disorders Marc S. Jacobson,1997 Key issues common to nutritionally related disorders of adolescents atherosclerosis hypertension obesity anorexia nervosa bulimia nervosa and birth of suboptimal weight infants are examined here in terms of macro and micro nutrient requirements and their effects on growth and pubertal development Key investigators present data addressing the genetic behavioural and environmental contributors to these nutritional disorders including diet exercise habitual physical activity body composition dyslipidemia and risk taking behaviour The effects of changing roles of women and ideals in body shape on the eating habits of adolescents are examined as well Progress in research on the risk factors for and the prevention of these various disorders are described as are innovative new programmes for young women and ethnic minorities This volume should serve as an important scientific update for all clinicians involved in adolescent health and medicine

Focus on Adolescent Behavior Research Terry C. Rhodes,2007 Developmentally puberty is accompanied by major physical and emotional changes that alter a young person's relationships and patterns of interaction with others The transition into adolescence begins the move toward independence from parents and the need to establish one's own values personal and sexual identity and the skills and competencies needed to compete in adult society Independence requires young people to renegotiate family rules and degree of supervision by parents a process that can generate conflict and withdrawal from parents At the same time social networks expand and relationships with peers and adults in new social contexts equal or exceed in importance the relationships with parents The criteria for success and acceptance among peers and adults change Adapting to all of these changes in relationships social contexts status and performance criteria can generate great stress feelings of rejection and anger at perceived or real failure Young people may be attracted to violent behaviour as a way of asserting their independence of the adult world and its rules as a way of gaining the attention and respect of peers as a way of compensating for limited personal competencies or as a response to restricted opportunities for success at school or in the community Good relationships with parents during childhood will help in a successful transition to adolescence but they do not guarantee it This new book presents new research in the field Mental Health Nursing in the Community Nancy K. Worley,1997 The only psychiatric nursing reference with a community focus MENTAL HEALTH NURSING IN THE COMMUNITY arms psychiatric nurses with information they need when they're in the field Throughout it provides nursing interventions specific to treatment modalities settings and at risk populations All information is dispensed in a practical realistic manner with numerous real world clinical examples that apply the principles to practice Eleven quick reference appendixes offer instant access to everything from assessment scales to DSM IV classifications
