Business Innovation and Disruption in the Music Industry Patrik Wikström, Robert DeFillippi, 2016-01-29 Patrik Wikström and Robert DeFillippi bring together innovative multidisciplinary perspectives on business innovation and disruption in the music industry Authors from fields such as cultural studies economics management media studies musicology and human geography in North America Europe and Asia focus on the second wave of digital disruption and the transformation of the music industry The chapters are structured into three parts the first part contextualizes changes in the music industry that have been driven by digital technologies since the end of the 1990s The second part unpacks the impact of these disruptive technologies on business models in specific industry sectors and geographies and the third and final part examines questions related to the emergence of subscription music services Concluding chapters link back to the role of hackers as a subversive and innovative force in the music economy and examine how hacker creativity can be facilitated and encouraged to generate the next big music industry innovation This multifaceted look at the music business will serve as a resource for both undergraduate and graduate students as well as established scholars and industry professionals

The International Recording Industries Lee Marshall, 2013 The recording industry has been a major focus of interest for cultural commentators throughout the twenty first century As the first major content industry to have its production and distribution patterns radically disturbed by the internet the recording industry s content attitudes and practices have regularly been under the microscope Much of this discussion however is dominated by US and UK perspectives and assumes the the recording industry to be a relatively static homogeneous entity This book attempts to offer a broader less Anglocentric and more dynamic understanding of the recording industry It starting premise is the idea that the recording industry is not one thing but is rather a series of recording industries locally organised and locally focused both structured by and structuring the international industry Seven detailed case studies of different national recording industries illustrate this fact each of them specifically chosen to provide a distinctive insight into the workings of the recording industry The expert contributions to this book provide the reader with a sense of the history structure and contemporary dynamics of the recording industry in these specific territories and counteract the Anglo American bias of coverage of the music industry The International Recording Industries will be valuable to students and scholars of sociology cultural studies media studies cultural economics and popular music studies

Streaming Reaches Flood Stage Luis Aguiar (Research fellow), Joel Waldfogel, 2015 Streaming music services have exploded in popularity in the past few years variously raising optimism and concern about their impacts on recorded music revenue On the one hand streaming services allow sellers to engage in bundling with the promise of increasing revenues profits and consumer surplus Successful bundling would indeed translate some of the interest in music not generating revenue through individual track sales unpaid consumption and deadweight loss into willingness to pay for the bundled offering On the other hand streaming may displace traditional individual track sales Even if they displace sales streams may however still raise overall revenue if the streaming payment is large enough in relation to the extent of sales displacement. We make use of the growth in Spotify use during the years 2013–2015 to measure its impact on unpaid consumption and on the sales of recorded music. We find that Spotify use displaces permanent downloads. In particular, 137 Spotify streams appear to reduce track sales by 1 unit. Consistent with the existing literature, our analysis also shows that Spotify displaces music piracy. Given the current industry's revenue from track sales, 0.82 per sale, and the average payment received per stream, 0.007 per stream, our sales displacement estimates show that the losses from displaced sales are roughly outweighed by the gains in streaming revenue. In other words, our analysis shows that interactive streaming appears to be revenue neutral for the recorded music industry.
