Population Change In Southeast Asia:

Population Change in Southeast Asia Wilfredo F. Arce, Gabriel C. Alvarez, 1983 A collection of selected and condensed reports on the broad subject of Population Change in Southeast Asia this book represents the work of young Southeast Asian social scientists Their research has helped to cast more light on the problems associated with rapid population growth more specifically the areas of fertility population mobility family planning the evaluation of family planning programs and the environmental influence of demographic behaviour Global Environmental Changes in South Asia A.P. Mitra, C. Sharma, 2012-03-05 The Fourth Assessment Report of IPCC having clinched in 2007 the evidence of global warming on account of anthropogenic activities backed with scientific data gathered and analyzed globally has made it mandatory world over to focus efforts on delineation of the anticipated adverse impacts of global warming on regional temperature and moisture regimes and the linked hydrologic climatic and biospheric processes First and foremost is the requirement to understand vulnerability to food and livelihood security in various ecosystems on mainland mid range and high mountains as well as coastal areas including CEZs The projected global temperature rise of the order of about two degrees or more and further rise at a decadal rate of around 0.2 C is sufficient to make grievous changes in sea surface level and submerge many low lying coastal areas around the world thereby possibly causing unprecedented losses to human habitat and livelihood in the coming years A rise in climate variability is also becoming increasingly evident with potential direct impact on agricultural performance on water accessibility and on weather extremes Developing countries due to their poor infrastructure limited resources and large impoverished population are likely to face more intense and widespread adverse impact of climate change than the developed world and also have limited adaptation capacity Demographic Change in Southeast Asia Lindy Williams, Michael Philip Guest, 2012 This volume chronicles the extensive demographic transformations in Southeast Asia documenting how public health and other policy interventions contributed to rapid population growth and how new patterns of settlement and migration ensued India and South Asia Anjum Siddiqui, 2007 South Asia has become a major center of attention on the world stage with the U S military involvement in Afghanistan since 9/11 the ongoing concern over Islamic fundamentalism in Pakistan and India's emergence as a regional economic power In addition the age old problems of South Asia mass poverty poor infrastructure misgovernance rampant corruption political uncertainty and regional wars add to the increased interest in the region Incorporating the most current information available the expert international contributors to this handbook examine the economies and geo political developments of India Pakistan Afghanistan Nepal Bangladesh Sri Lanka and Bhutan They focus on three core areas of importance trade and development in the post WTO era of globalization macroeconomic adjustment and economic growth and poverty governance the war on terror and social indicators With its cutting edge analysis the handbook is an essential reference for all students researchers and practitioners dealing with the region Climate Change in the Middle East and North Africa William R.

Thompson, Leila Zakhirova, 2021-07-04 Environmental factors in the Middle East and North Africa MENA have played a crucial role in the historical and social development of the region The book delves into a broad set of historical literature from the past 15 000 years that neglected to consider environmental factors to their full effect Beyond the broad historic analysis the chapters derive conclusions for today's debate on whether climate change leads to more social conflict and violence Introducing a theoretical framework focused on adaptive cycling this book probes and refines the role of climate in ancient and modern political economic systems in the MENA region It also underscores just how bad the 21st century environment may become thanks to global warming While the MENA region may not survive the latest onslaught of deteriorating climate there is also some interest in how a region that once led the world in introducing all sorts of innovations thousands of years ago has evolved into a contemporary setting characterized by traditional conservatism poverty and incessant strife Emphasizing regional dynamics the book's central question deals with the role of climate change in the rise and decline of the MENA region The book will be a key resource to students and readers interested in global warming including academics and policymakers

Population, Sanitation and Health Asraful Alam, Rukhsana, Nazrul Islam, Bappa Sarkar, Ranjan Roy, 2023-11-21 This book provides analyses of sanitation health population dynamics and demographic variables from different perspectives including data science statistics modeling economics and natural sciences to inform sustainable decision making and policies related public health and hygiene and in mainly rural and impoverished areas The structure is arranged into three broad sections Part I Population Dynamics Environment and Society Part II Health Livelihood and Policy Response and Part III Water Sanitation and Hygiene WASH The book makes recommendations for policymakers on designing and delivering social protection policies to deal with different aspects of water health sanitation population and hygiene taking the needs of women and rural communities into special consideration It also aims to educate students and early career researchers to help them develop novel approaches for sustainability with environmentally sound practices

An Atlas and Survey of South Asian History Karl J. Schmidt, Regional Development and Change in Southeast Asia in the 1990s Amara Pongsapich, Michael C. Howard, Jacques Amyot, 1992 The chapters included in this collection were first presented at a conference held at Chulalongkorn University in December 1991

South Asia Economic Focus World Bank, 2024-04-02 South Asia is expected to continue to be the fastest growing emerging market and developing economy EMDE region over the next two years This is largely thanks to robust growth in India but growth is also expected to pick up in most other South Asian economies However growth in the near term is more reliant on the public sector than elsewhere whereas private investment in particular continues to be weak Efforts to rein in elevated debt borrowing costs and fiscal deficits may eventually weigh on growth and limit governments ability to respond to increasingly frequent climate shocks Yet the provision of public goods is among the most effective strategies for climate adaptation This is especially the case for households and farms which tend to rely on shifting their efforts to non agricultural jobs These strategies are less effective forms of climate adaptation in part because opportunities to move out of agriculture are limited by the region's below average employment ratios in the non agricultural sector and for women. Because employment growth is falling short of working age population growth the region fails to fully capitalize on its demographic dividend. Vibrant competitive firms are key to unlocking the demographic dividend, robust private investment and workers ability to move out of agriculture. A range of policies could spur firm growth including improved business climates and institutions, the removal of financial sector restrictions and greater openness to trade and capital flows. The Philippines in a Changing Southeast Asia Steven R. Dorr, 1989 Social Change in Southeast Asia Johannes Dragsbaek Schmidt, Jacques Hersh, Niels Fold, 1997 Social Change in South East Asia provides a comprehensive and in depth examination of the ongoing process of development and societal transformation in a dynamic region of the Third World. Written by a team of specialists from the fields of development studies, sociology and political economy, the book looks at some of the fundamental problems facing South East Asia by addressing the following issues: the social constellations, class, culture and political legitimation and industrialisation and labour regulation. Consequences of Population Change in Asia United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 1989 South Asia in the World: An Introduction Susan S Wadley, 2014-12-18 This first book in the new Foundations in Global Studies series offers a fresh comprehensive multidisciplinary introduction to South Asia. The variations in social, cultural, economic and political life in this diverse and complex region are explored within the context of the globalising forces affecting all regions of the world. In a simple strategy that all books in the series employ, the volume begins with foundational material including chapters on history, language and in the case of South Asia, religion, moves to a discussion of globalisation and then focuses the investigation more specifically through the use of case studies. The cases expose the student to various disciplinary lenses that are important in understanding the region and are meant to bring the region to life through subjects of high interest and significance to today's readers. Resource boxes, an important feature of the book, are included to maintain currency and add utility. They offer links that point readers to a rich archive of additional material, connections to timely data, reports on recent events, official sites, local and country based media, visual material and so forth. A website developed by Syracuse University's South Asia Center will feature additional graphic, narrative and case study material to complement the book. International Studies Sheldon Anderson, Mark Allen Peterson, Stanley W. Toops, 2017-07-25 This core text is the first to provide a much needed interdisciplinary approach to international studies. Emphasizing the interconnected nature of history, geography, anthropology, economics and political science, International Studies details the methodologies and subject matter of each discipline, then applies these discipline lenses to seven regions: Europe, East Asia and the Pacific, South and Central Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, the Middle East and North Africa, Latin America and North America. This disciplinary and regional combination provides an indispensable cohesive framework for understanding global issues. The fully updated fourth edition includes four new global issues chapters: The Refugee Crisis in

Europe The Syrian Civil War and the Rise of the Islamic State Global Climate Change and The Globalization of Modern Sports

The Asian City: Processes of Development, Characteristics and Planning Ashok K. Dutt, F.J. Costa, Surinder Aggarwal, A.G.
