El-Kholy,2012-12-06 Our planet is under siege Assaults on the atmosphere the greenhouse effect the depletion of the ozone layer and increasing air pollution pose a still unquantified threat to human life The dumping of hazardous wastes and land based sources of pollution present a similar threat to the oceans On land we are destroying a tropical forest the size of Austria every year and more than a hundred species of wild plants and animals are lost forever each day When the General Assembly of the United Nations established UNEP it charged us with reporting on the changing state of the world s environment tracking the underlying causes of change and working with governments to develop responses to those changes Every year since 1974 UNEP has produced a State of the Environment report focusing on one or more emerging environmental issues and always stressing the human factor the impact of environmental quality on people and society Three times since its inception 1982 1987 and 1992 UNEP has undertaken a more wide ranging study The results of the present study are the most disturbing of the three However not all the signs are negative Throughout the 1970s and into the 1980s UNEP was able to report progress in some important areas Environmental monitoring capacity was being rapidly improved in many parts of the world and Ministries of the Environment were being set up in an attempt to deal with environmental threats in a more coherent way

Population, Climate Change, and Women's Lives Robert Engelman,2010 The report draws on new studies that document the environmental pressures from soaring population growth It also reports on the unique role that women can play in alleviating those pressures even as women are disproportionately affected by the adverse effects of climate change Finally the report argues that humanity ultimately will need to slow population growth to tackle rising global temperatures and that the only way to do this is by improving the well being of women worldwide
