De Cecco, William R. Crawford, 1974 Psychology of Learning for Instruction Marcy Perkins Driscoll, Kerry Jean Burner, 2021 This book is about learning but it is also about instruction and how knowledge about the psychology of learning helps to ensure the quality and effectiveness of instruction Psychology in Learning and Instruction Patricia A. Alexander, 2006 This book introduces future educators and researchers to several different psychological perspectives and uses these perspectives to introduce key issues such as knowledge acquisition and transfer strategic process and student motivation As an editor and reviewer of the top journals in the field the author is able to present the latest research in language that is accessible and understandable Unlike other books that are organized around theoretical topics valued by psychologists it is organized around education problems and issues deemed important by educators Psychology of Learning for Instruction Marcy Perkins Driscoll, 2000 In this text the applications and implications of learning theories are explained and illustrated using examples ranging from primary school instruction to corporate training A theme of the book is reflective practice designed to foster a critical and reflective mode of thinking when considering any approach to learning and instruction

Essentials of Learning for Instruction

Robert Mills Gagné, Marcy Perkins Driscoll, 1988 This is a book about human learning intended to be useful to teachers and prospective teachers The contents of this book will provide a framework that can serve well in organizing thought and the accumulation of knowledge about teaching Learning is described in terms of the information processing model of learning and memory This model posits a number of internal processes that are subject to the influence of external events The book should find its greatest usefulness in undergraduate courses in educational psychology and as an adjunct to graduate offerings in this subject It might also be used as a supplementary text in courses in human learning instructional methods instructional design and educational technology as well for the continuing education of teachers

Handbook of Individual Differences, Learning, and Instruction

David H. Jonassen, Barbara L. Grabowski, 2012-12-06 Written for teachers trainers and instructional designers anyone who is responsible for designing or preparing instruction this book begins with one basic premise individual differences mediate learning at all levels and in all situations That is some learners find it easier or more difficult to learn some skills or to learn from certain forms of instruction because they vary in terms of aptitude cognitive styles personality or learning styles This volume describes most of the major differences in a readable and accessible way and demonstrates how to design various forms of instruction and predict the ease with which learners will acquire different skills Most books that discuss any learner differences focus on those that characterize special education populations whereas this book focuses on normal learners Designed as a handbook this volume is structured to provide easy and consistent access to information and answers and prescriptions and hypotheses When definitive answers are not possible because there is no research documentation the authors suggest theories designed to stimulate future research
