Perspectives On Pastoral Development A Casebook From Kenya:

Perspectives on Pastoral Development Isobel Birch, Halima A. O. Shuria, 2001 An objective account of a major Oxfam initiative the Wajir pastoral development project in northeast Kenya with its distinctive emphasis on community participation It explains how marginalized groups are developing their own pastoral associations to represent their interests and Oxfam's role in facilitating that process It describes an integrated approach to pastoral development supporting the livelihoods of livestock keepers and those who have lost their animals devising strategies to address drought and conflict as part of a longer term agenda for sustainable development and working to influence key decisions made by high level policy makers

We Do Not Have Borders Keren Weitzberg, 2017-07-25 Though often associated with foreigners and refugees many Somalis have lived in Kenya for generations in many cases since long before the founding of the country Despite their long residency foreign and state officials and Kenyan citizens often perceive the Somali population to be a dangerous and alien presence in the country and charges of civil and human rights abuses have mounted against them in recent years In We Do Not Have Borders Keren Weitzberg examines the historical factors that led to this state of affairs In the process she challenges many of the most fundamental analytical categories such as tribe race and nation that have traditionally shaped African historiography Her interest in the ways in which Somali representations of the past and the present inform one another places her research at the intersection of the disciplines of history political science and anthropology Given tragic events in Kenya and the controversy surrounding al Shabaab We Do Not Have Borders has enormous historical and contemporary significance and provides unique inroads into debates over globalization African sovereignty the resurgence of religion and the multiple meanings of being African Livestock in a Changing Landscape, Volume 1 Henning

Steinfeld, Harold A. Mooney, Fritz Schneider, Laurie E. Neville, 2013-03-06 The rapidly changing nature of animal production systems especially increasing intensification and globalization is playing out in complex ways around the world Over the last century livestock keeping evolved from a means of harnessing marginal resources to produce items for local consumption to a key component of global food chains Livestock in a Changing Landscape offers a comprehensive examination of these important and far reaching trends The books are an outgrowth of a collaborative effort involving international nongovernmental organizations including the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization UN FAO the International Livestock Research Institute ILRI the Swiss College of Agriculture SHL the French Agricultural Research Centre for International Development CIRAD and the Scientific Committee for Problems of the Environment SCOPE Volume 1 examines the forces shaping change in livestock production and management the resulting impacts on landscapes land use and social systems and potential policy and management responses Volume 2 explores needs and draws experience from region specific contexts and detailed case studies The case studies describe how drivers and consequences of change play out in specific geographical areas and how public and private responses are shaped and implemented Together the volumes present new
