Postcard History Of The Pabenger Liner:

A Postcard History of the Passenger Liner Christopher Deakes, 2012-10-15 Christopher Deakes worked for many years as a shipping agent in the Far East and in different parts of Africa. He has been an avid collector of shipping postcards and his first book The Postcard History of the Passenger Liner was published to great acclaim. A Postcard History of the Passenger Liner Christopher Deakes, 2023-10-01 From around 1880 for almost a hundred years shipowners commissioned a wealth of paintings that depicted their magnificent liners as well as the routes they travelled their exotic destinations and life onboard. These paintings rich in imagination and atmosphere appeared on postcards and posters of the day and were used to advertise the companies and their ships and so was born a whole genre that produced tens of thousands of paintings which formed a wonderful record of the great era of the passenger liner. In 1900 there were over thirty shipping companies operating passenger liners across the North Atlantic. Other oceans were similarly served. But now with just a few exceptions the companies and their liners have disappeared along with the art they once inspired. Little remains to recall this aspect of our maritime past except the postcards and they tell an evocative story of the vanished world of elegant ships and leisurely travel of social and political times much changed by the history of the past century. Here brought vividly to life in more than 500 colourful postcards are the ships on which so many of our predecessors sailed as emigrants, soldiers, administrators or simply as tourists in days long past. These cards which are now highly collectable show how steamships developed over the years but they are also a fine tribute to the artists who painted them. This volume also includes a glossary of some 170 illustrators which forms an important reference section and advice on collecting. Postcards Lydia Pyne, 2021-10-13 A global exploration of postcards as artifacts at the intersection of history, science, technology, art and culture. Postcards are usually associated with banal holiday pleasantries but they are made possible by sophisticated industries and institutions from printers to postal services. When they were invented postcards established what is now taken for granted in modern times: the ability to send and receive messages around the world easily and inexpensively. Fundamentally they are about creating personal connections, links between people, places and beliefs. Lydia Pyne examines postcards on a global scale to understand them as artifacts that are at the intersection of history, science, technology, art and culture. In doing so she shows how postcards were the first global social network and also here in the twenty-first century how postcards are not yet extinct.

Ocean Liner Postcards in Marine Art, 1900-1945 Robert Wall, 1998 The cards provide an enduring record of the great age of intercontinental travel by sea. This book gives a fascinating picture of a more leisured age before the advent of the jet airliner. Penang Postcard Collection 1899-1930s Salma Nasution Khoo, Malcolm Wade, 2003 The Mariner's Mirror Leonard George Carr Laughton, Roger Charles Anderson, William Gordon Perrin, 2006 A Social History of Britain in Postcards, 1870-1930 Eric J.
