

PostColonial Theory

- Focuses on the reading and writing of literature written in previously or currently colonized countries. The literature is composed of colonizing countries that deals with colonization or colonized peoples.
- The Postcolonial theory is a term that refers the theoretical and critical observations of former colonies of the Western powers and how they relate to, and interact with, the rest of the world.
- Greatly interested in the cultures of the colonizer and the colonized, postcolonial theory seeks to critically investigate what happens when two cultures clash and one of them ideologically fashions itself as superior and assumes dominance and control over the other.
- The field of postcolonial studies has itself been hotly contested ever since its rise in the 1970s.

Postcolonial Theory And Literature:

Postcolonial Literature Pramod K. Nayar, 2008 The Post-colonial Studies Reader Bill Ashcroft, Gareth Griffiths, Helen Tiffin, 1995

The Post Colonial Studies Reader is the most comprehensive selection of key texts in post colonial theory and criticism yet compiled. This collection covers a huge range of topics featuring nearly ninety of the discipline's most widely read works. The Reader's 90 extracts are designed to introduce the major issues and debates in the field of post colonial literary studies. This field itself however has become so varied that no collection of readings could encompass every voice which is now giving itself the name post colonial. The editors in order to avoid a volume which is simply a critical canon have selected works representing arguments with which they do not necessarily agree but rather which above all stimulate discussion, thought and further exploration. Post colonial theory has occurred in all societies into which the imperial force of Europe has intruded though not always in the official form of theoretical text. Like the description of any other field the term has come to mean many things but this volume hinges on one incontestable phenomenon: the historical fact of colonialism and the palpable consequences to which this phenomenon gave rise. The topic involves talk about experience of various kinds: migration, slavery, suppression, resistance, representation, difference, race, gender, place and reaction to the European influence and about the fundamental experiences of speaking and writing by which all these come into being. In compiling this reader the editors have sought to stimulate people to ask: How might a genuinely post colonial literary enterprise proceed? The fourteen sections include: Issues and Debates, Universality and Difference, Textual Representation and Resistance, Postmodernism and Post Colonialism, Nationalism, Hybridity, Ethnicity and Indigeneity, Feminism and Post Colonialism, Language, The Body and Performance, History, Place, Education and Production and Consumption. Contributors include many of the leading post colonial theorists and critics such as Franz Fanon, Chinua Achebe, Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak, Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o, Homi Bhabha, Derek Walcott, Edward Said and Trinh T. Minh-ha in addition to a number of the discourse's newer voices. The Post Colonial Studies Reader will prove an authoritative compilation representing an invaluable contribution to the study of post colonial theory and criticism.

Colonial Discourse/ Postcolonial Theory Francis Barker, Peter Hulme, Margaret Iverson, 1994. This book on post colonial theory has a wide geographic range and a breadth of historical perspectives. Central to the book is a critique of the very idea of the postcolonial itself.

Travel Writing and Empire Steven H. Clark, 1999. Travel writing has become central to postcolonial studies and literary criticism. This is a comprehensive introduction to the genre to its dynamics of power and representation and the degree to which it has promoted ideologies of empire. It combines evaluations of the main models of analysis: new historicism, travelling theory and postcolonial studies with specific studies showing how travel writing has been linked with a history of violent incursion from Columbus's reports from the New World onwards. The contributors discuss the travel writing of people such as Bruce Chatwin, Bill Bryson, Redmond O'Hanlon and Jonathan Raban. They resist the temptation to think in terms of a simple monolithic Eurocentrism and offer readings of texts produced before during and after periods of imperial ascendancy

What Postcolonial Theory Doesn't Say Anna Bernard, Ziad Elmarsafy, Stuart Murray, 2015-08-11 This book reclaims postcolonial theory addressing persistent limitations in the geographical disciplinary and methodological assumptions of its dominant formations It emerges however from an investment in the future of postcolonial studies and a commitment to its basic premise namely that literature and culture are fundamental to the response to structures of colonial and imperial domination To a certain extent postcolonial theory is a victim of its own success not least because of the institutionalization of the insights that it has enabled Now that these insights no longer seem new it is hard to know what the field should address beyond its general commitments Yet the renewal of popular anti imperial energies across the globe provides an important opportunity to reassert the political and theoretical value of the postcolonial as a comparative interdisciplinary and oppositional paradigm This collection makes a claim for what postcolonial theory can say through the work of scholars articulating what it still cannot or will not say It explores ideas that a more aesthetically sophisticated postcolonial theory might be able to address focusing on questions of visibility performance and literariness Contributors highlight some of the shortcomings of current postcolonial theory in relation to contemporary political developments such as Zimbabwean land reform postcommunism and the economic rise of Asia Finally they address the disciplinary geographical and methodological exclusions from postcolonial studies through a detailed focus on new disciplinary directions management studies international relations disaster studies overlooked locations and perspectives Palestine Weimar Germany the commons and the necessity of materialist analysis for understanding both the contemporary world and world literary systems

The Cambridge Companion to Postcolonial Literary Studies Neil Lazarus, 2004-07-15 The Cambridge Companion to Postcolonial Literary Studies first published in 2004 offers a lucid introduction and overview of one of the most important strands in recent literary theory and cultural studies The volume aims to introduce readers to key concepts methods theories thematic concerns and contemporary debates in the field Drawing on a wide range of disciplines contributors explain the impact of history sociology and philosophy on the study of postcolonial literatures and cultures Topics examined include everything from anti colonial nationalism and decolonisation to globalisation migration flows and the brain drain which constitute the past and present of the postcolonial condition The volume also pays attention to the sociological and ideological conditions surrounding the emergence of postcolonial literary studies as an academic field in the late 1970s and early 1980s The Companion turns an authoritative engaged and discriminating lens on postcolonial literary studies

Navigating Boundaries: A Comprehensive Study of Postcolonial Theory and Literature, 2025-02-25 Navigating Boundaries A Comprehensive Study of Postcolonial Theory and Literature delves into the intricate area of postcolonial discourse amplifying the voices emerging from the margins challenging dominant narratives while exploring the themes of identity mimicry hybridity power and resistance Drawing from key theorists such as Edward Said Homi K Bhabha Frantz Fanon Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak Philip G Altbach Deepesh

Chakravarthy Chandra Talpade Mohanty Gauri Viswanathan etc this book offers a deep investigation into the multiple aspects of theoretical frameworks that shape postcolonial discourse The analysis moves seamlessly from theory to literature investigating how postcolonial literary texts navigate critical issues such as hybridity mimicry identity and resistance A vital resource for students research scholars teachers and anyone curious about the dynamic field of postcolonial theory and literature this book calls readers to reflect question and join the discourse on the complex narratives that continue to shape our world Generally most of the postcolonial critiques explore linguistic imperialism but this book makes a groundbreaking contribution by foregrounding the use of vernacular languages in literary texts and critical theory positing that this is not just an aesthetic choice but a form of resistance and identity reclamation In doing so it echoes Ng g wa Thiong o s call for linguistic decolonization and applies it in a broader more diverse context examining how the act of writing in local languages disrupts colonial power dynamics and fosters cultural preservation While much of postcolonial criticism tends to centre on broad historical and political analysis Navigating Boundaries emphasizes the multiple voices coming from Africa Caribbean and South Asia offering a more intimate look at identity formation in postcolonial settings Moreover the book s interdisciplinary approach strengthens its position in the field By weaving in cultural studies sociology and psychological perspectives on gender trauma ethnicity and memory it opens up fresh pathways making the work relevant not just for literary scholars but for those interested in a wider discourse on postcolonial theory

Postcolonial Criticism Bart Moore-Gilbert,Gareth Stanton,Willy Maley,2014-05-12 Post colonial theory is a relatively new area in critical contemporary studies having its foundations more Postcolonial Criticism brings together some of the most important critical writings in the field and aims to present a clear overview of and introduction to one of the most exciting and rapidly developing areas of contemporary literary criticism It charts the development of the field both historically and conceptually from its beginnings in the early post war period to the present day The first phase of postcolonial criticism is recorded here in the pioneering work of thinkers like Aim C saire Frantz Fanon Edward Said and Gayatri Spivak More recently a new generation of academics have provided fresh assessments of the interaction of class race and gender in cultural production and this generation is represented in the work of Aijaz Ahmad bell hooks Homi Bhabha Abdul JanMohamed and David Lloyd Topics covered include negritude national culture orientalism subalternity ambivalence hybridity white settler societies gender and colonialism culturalism commonwealth literature and minority discourse The collection includes an extensive general introduction which clearly sets out the key stages figures and debates in the field The editors point to the variety even conflict within the field but also stress connections and parallels between the various figures and debates which they identify as central to an understanding of it The introduction is followed by a series of ten essays which have been carefully chosen to reflect both the diversity and continuity of postcolonial criticism Each essay is supported by a short introduction which places it in context with the rest of the author's work and identifies how its salient arguments contribute to the field as a whole This is a field which covers many disciplines including literary theory cultural studies philosophy geography economics history and politics It is designed to fit into the current modular arrangement of courses and is therefore suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate courses which address postcolonial issues and the new literatures in English

Postcolonial Theory and Crisis Paulo de Medeiros, Sandra Ponzanesi, 2024-04-01 In the millennial transition the prefix post had come to signify more and more not just the realisation of a coming after but also of the impossibility of not seeing the present as still very much working through the wounds of the past Yet with the appearance of pseudo concepts such as post truth after an equally imaginary death of History the logic of the post itself always already under questioning may appear to have outlived its usefulness How to make sense of postcolonial theory in Europe in the present One way might be to renew its significance as world conflicts have entered a new post imperial phase with the return of ideologies of empire in various parts of the world The essays in this volume address those questions at both a conceptual theoretical level and through the analysis of specific case studies In the Introduction Paulo de Medeiros and Sandra Ponzanesi review the main questions outlined above in relation to the current debates in the Humanities from their respective disciplinary perspectives The volume is organised in four sections each containing four chapters Even though all the chapters present a reflection on Postcolonial Theory and Crisis some focus more specifically on aspects of the crisis in a global perspective such as humanitarian crisis and the role of mediatization of conflicts to issues related to human rights refugees migrancy environmental crisis to questions of memory and postmemory as well as the critique of art and utopian thought
