Promoting School Readiness and Early Learning Michel Boivin, Karen L. Bierman, 2013-10-14 Grounded in cutting edge developmental research this book examines what school readiness entails and how it can be improved Compelling longitudinal findings are presented on the benefits of early intervention for preschoolers at risk due to poverty and other factors The volume identifies the cognitive language behavioral motor and socioemotional skills that enable young children to function successfully in school contexts It explores specific ways in which school and family based interventions including programs that target reading and language math self regulation and social emotional development can contribute to school readiness The book also addresses challenges in the large scale dissemination of evidence based practices

The Effect of Parenting on Child and Adolescence Development Yanfang Li, Bin-Bin Chen, Yufang Bian, Wenchao Ma, Lichan Liang, 2025-11-18 Families and parents have the most central and enduring influence on children's lives Of all the modifiable factors that influence child and adolescent development and life course outcomes the important role of parenting arouses the interest of many researchers Exploring the effect of parenting on their children's social emotional adjustment mental health and academic achievement and its underlying mechanism could provide an extremely important reference for early intervention prevention and treatment Despite a large number of local national or international empirical studies in this field some questions are still open for discussion such as the underlying mechanism of the association between parents cognition parenting practices and child development under a comprehensive system of parenting in a different demographic e.g. racial, ethnic and economic contexts, the changes of parenting accompanied with social change and era development, the interaction of parenting and other factors within family system or other external systems e.g. school and so on. For this Research Topic, we adopt a broad definition of parenting including parents' opinions and feelings about their own parenting roles and parents' beliefs, attitudes, socialization goals and parenting practices toward their children. The main aim is to explore the effect of parenting on child and adolescent development, including self, social, emotional and academic development, which can help further design effective intervention programs to promote children's and adolescents' positive development via effective parenting. We are particularly interested in manuscripts focusing on the following research subtopics: 1 Theories and underlying mechanisms, mediators or moderators to explain why and how could parenting affect child and adolescent development; 2 The associations between parenting and child development in different demographic contexts or at different times; 3 The similarities and discrepancies between children and parent report about parenting and its influence on the child and adolescent development; 4 The specific effect of paternal parenting or the effect of co-parenting on child and adolescent development; 5 The potential interaction effect of parenting and other factors such as teacher, peer, grandparent and sibling on child and adolescent development. Quantitative studies e.g. cross-sectional and longitudinal studies, cohort studies, experimental studies, intervention studies, meta-analysis and qualitative studies e.g. interview studies, observational studies, systematic review are both welcome.

School Readiness Gilbert Rugg Gredler, 1992. Noting that the latest messages communicated to the public about the learning problems of American children emphasize children's lack of social maturity and premature school entry, this book examines the many complex issues surrounding school readiness and entry. The 15 chapters are divided into 4 sections. The first section includes an introduction and overview of school readiness and a discussion of the concept of school readiness. The second section deals with assessing readiness. This section presents issues in early childhood screening and assessment, comparisons of some current readiness and screening tests, and an analysis of the Gesell School Readiness Test. Also discussed in this section is the social and emotional adjustment of children considered young for their age. The third section examines school practices. This section covers issues in the entrance age debate, an analysis of the influence of entrance age on achievement and the transition room experience. In addition, the section discusses retention in kindergarten and first grade intervention and remediation programs for young children and issues affecting early childhood education. The final section of the book examines the related issues of parental reactions and ethical and legal issues in the educational placement of children. The last chapter in this section offers a recapitulation with some final issues for consideration. Contains 19 pages of references. VI.
