Tales of Chekhov Vol. IX A. P Chekhov,2022-03-20 The Schoolmistress and Other Stories The Tales of Chekhov Vol IXGrisha a fat solemn little person of seven was standing by the kitchen door listening and peeping through the keyhole In the kitchen something extraordinary and in his opinion never seen before was taking place A big thick set red haired peasant with a beard and a drop of perspiration on his nose wearing a cabman s full coat was sitting at the kitchen table on which they chopped the meat and sliced the onions He was balancing a saucer on the five fingers of his right hand and drinking tea out of it and crunching sugar so loudly that it sent a shiver down Grisha s back Aksinya Stepanovna the old nurse was sitting on the dirty stool facing him and she too was drinking tea Her face was grave though at the same time it beamed with a kind of triumph Pelageya the cook was busy at the stove and was apparently trying to hide her face And on her face Grisha saw a regular illumination it was burning and shifting through every shade of colour beginning with a crimson purple and ending with a deathly white She was continually catching hold of knives forks bits of wood and rags with trembling hands moving grumbling to herself making a clatter but in reality doing nothing She did not once glance at the table at which they were drinking tea and to the questions put to her by the nurse she gave jerky sullen answers without turning her face Help yourself Danilo Semyonitch the nurse urged him hospitably Why do you keep on with tea and nothing but tea You should have a drop of vodka And nurse put before the visitor a bottle of vodka and a wine glass while her face wore a very wily expression I never touch it No said the cabman declining Don t press me Aksinya Stepanovna What a man A cabman and not drink A bachelor can t get on without drinking Help yourself The cabman looked askance at the bottle then at nurse s wily face and his own face assumed an expression no less cunning as much as to say You won t catch me you old witch I don t drink please excuse me Such a weakness does not do in our calling A man who works at a trade may drink for he sits at home but we cabmen are always in view of the public Aren t we If one goes into a pothouse one finds one s horse gone if one takes a drop too much it is worse still before you know where you are you will fall asleep or slip off the box That s where it is
