Science And Technology Of Aerosol Packaging:

The Science and Technology of Aerosol Packaging John J. Sciarra, 1974 Applied Science & Technology Index, 1969 Handbook on Spray Drying Applications for Food Industries M. Selvamuthukumaran, 2019-07-12 Spray drying is a mechanical process by which materials in liquid form can be converted into solid form such as powders. It is a rapid, continuous, cost-effective, reproducible, and scalable process for producing dry powders from a fluid material by atomization through an atomizer into a hot drying gas medium, usually air. The Handbook on Spray Drying Applications for Food Industries deals with recent techniques adopted in spray drying systems for drying a vast array of food products, novel and emerging tools used for spray drying of antioxidant-rich products, optimized conditions used for extraction and production of herbal powders by using spray drying techniques, and problems encountered during spray drying of acid and sugar-rich foods, and also various herbal powders. The book discusses the encapsulation of flavors by using the spray drying process, providing a comparison with other encapsulation techniques. It reviews the retention of bioactive compounds and the effect of different parameters on bioactive compounds during spray drying of juice. Moreover, the book explains the effect of novel approaches of spray drying on nutrients. The book addresses strategies adopted for retention of nutrients and survival of probiotic bacteria during spray drying processing. It also identifies packaging material needed for enhanced product stability. The safety and quality aspects of manufacturing spray-dried food products are discussed. Key Features: Describes the design of high-performance spray drying systems; Highlights the strategy adopted for maximizing the yield potential of various spray-dried food products; Discusses strategies adopted for retention of nutrients and survival of probiotic bacteria during spray drying process; Contains charts, procedure flow sheets, tables, figures, photos, and a list of spray drying equipment suppliers. This book will benefit entrepreneurs, food scientists, academicians, and students by providing in-depth knowledge about spray drying of foods for quality retention and also for efficient consumer acceptability of finished products. Blue Book, 1976 Soap, Cosmetics, Chemical Specialties, 1978 Soap and Chemical Specialties, 1962 Spray Drying Techniques for Food Ingredient Encapsulation C. Anandharamakrishnan, Padma Ishwarya S., 2015-07-23 Spray drying is a well-established method for transforming liquid materials into dry powder form. Widely used in the food and pharmaceutical industries, this technology produces high-quality powders with low moisture content, resulting in a wide range of shelf-stable food and other biologically significant products. Encapsulation technology for bioactive compounds has gained momentum in the last few decades, and a series of valuable food compounds, namely, flavours, carotenoids, and microbial cells, have been successfully encapsulated using spray drying. Spray Drying Technique for Food Ingredient Encapsulation provides an insight into the engineering aspects of the spray drying process in relation to the encapsulation of food ingredients, choice of wall materials, and an overview of the various food ingredients encapsulated using spray drying. The book also throws light upon the recent advancements in the field of encapsulation by spray drying, i.e., nanospray dryers for production of nanocapsules.
