Science Observed Science As A Social And Intellectual Activity:

Science Observed; Science as a Social and Intellectual Activity Frederick Raphael Jevons, 1973 Science Observed F. R. Jevons, 1973 Science Studies during the Cold War and Beyond Elena Aronova, Simone Turchetti, 2016-09-24 This book examines the ways in which studies of science intertwined with Cold War politics in both familiar and less familiar battlefields of the Cold War Taken together the essays highlight two primary roles for science studies as a new field of expertise institutionalized during the Cold War in different political regimes Firstly science studies played a political role in cultural Cold War in sustaining as well as destabilizing political ideologies in different political and national contexts Secondly it was an instrument of science policies in the early Cold War the studies of science were promoted as the underpinning for the national policies framed with regard to both global geopolitics and local national priorities As this book demonstrates however the wider we cast our net extending our histories beyond the more researched developments in the Anglophone West the more complex and ambivalent both the science studies and the Cold War become outside these more familiar spaces The national stories collected in this book may appear incommensurable with what we know as science studies today but these stories present a vantage point from which to pluralize some of the visions that were constitutive to the construction of Cold War as a juxtaposition of the liberal democracies in the West and the communist East Scientist as Subject Michael J. Mahoney, 2004-12-31 In this book originally published by Ballinger in 1976 Michael Mahoney documents the idiosyncracies and foibles of the scientific process as a field of endeavor A new introduction updates his discussion in light of subsequent developments including such aspects of academia as politics and tenure publication and power relations science studies and constructivist inquiry and what have come to be called the science wars International Handbook of Research in History, Philosophy and Science Teaching Michael R. Matthews, 2014-07-03 This inaugural handbook documents the distinctive research field that utilizes history and philosophy in investigation of theoretical curricular and pedagogical issues in the teaching of science and mathematics It is contributed to by 130 researchers from 30 countries it provides a logically structured fully referenced guide to the ways in which science and mathematics education is informed by the history and philosophy of these disciplines as well as by the philosophy of education more generally The first handbook to cover the field it lays down a much needed marker of progress to date and provides a platform for informed and coherent future analysis and research of the subject The publication comes at a time of heightened worldwide concern over the standard of science and mathematics education attended by fierce debate over how best to reform curricula and enliven student engagement in the subjects There is a growing recognition among educators and policy makers that the learning of science must dovetail with learning about science this handbook is uniquely positioned as a locus for the discussion The handbook features sections on pedagogical theoretical national and biographical research setting the literature of each tradition in its historical context It reminds readers at a crucial juncture that there has been a long and rich tradition of historical and philosophical engagements with science and mathematics teaching and that lessons can be learnt from these engagements for the resolution of current theoretical curricular and pedagogical questions that face teachers and administrators Science educators will be grateful for this unique encyclopaedic handbook Gerald Holton Physics Department Harvard University This handbook gathers the fruits of over thirty years research by a growing international and cosmopolitan community Fabio Bevilacqua Physics Department University of Pavia The Emory-Tibet Science Initiative, a Novel Journey in Cross-Cultural Science Education Arri Eisen, Meena M.
