Problem Of Labour In Fourteenthcentury England:

The Problem of Labour in Fourteenth-century England James Bothwell, P. J. P. Goldberg, W. M. Ormrod, 2000
Attitudes towards labour in the wake of the Black Death shown to range from early protest literature to repressive authoritarianism At the very moment that the image of the honest labourer seemed to reach its apogee in the Luttrell Psalter or a few decades later in Piers Plowman the dominant culture of the landed interests was increasingly suspicious of what it described as the idleness greed and arrogance of the lower orders Labour was one of the central issues during the fourteenth century the natural disasters and profound social changes of the period created not merely a problem of labour but also new ways of discussing and supposedly solving that problem These studies engage with the contrasting and often competing discourses which emerged ranging from the critical social awareness of some of the early fourteenth century protest literature to the repressive authoritarianism of the new national employment laws that were enforced in the wake of the Black Death and were expressed in counter cultures of resistance and dissent JAMES BOTHWELL and P J P GOLDBERG lecture in history and W M ORMROD is Professor of History at the University of York Contributors CORDELIA BEATTIE CHRISTOPHER DYER RICHARD K EMMERSON P J P GOLDBERG KATE GILES CHRIS GIVEN WILSON STEPHEN KNIGHT DEREK PEARSALL SARAH REES JONES

The Middle Ages at Work K. Robertson, M. Uebel, 2016-04-30 This timely volume examines the commitments of historicism in the wake of New Historicism It contributes to the construction of a materialist historicism while at the same time proposing that discussions of work need not be limited to the clash between labour and capital To this end the essays offer more than a strictly historical view of the complex terms social and literary within which labour was treated in the medieval period Several of the essays strive to reformulate the very critical language we use to think about the categories of labour and work through a continually doubled engagement with modern theories of labour and medieval theories and practices of labour

Gender and Fraternal Orders in Europe, 1300-2000 Máire Fedelma Cross, 2010-09-30 What have medieval nuns parrot shooting Freemasonry and Shetland revelry got in common This study of monastic orders guilds Freemasonry and friendly societies over centuries and across frontiers provides new insights into their contribution to the gendering of public space and the evolution of separate spheres in Europe

Flemish Textile Workers in England, 1331-1400 Milan Pajic, 2023-11-30 The story of immigrant textile workers from Flanders and their contributions to the English textile industry

Experiences of Charity, 1250-1650 Dr Anne M Scott, 2015-05-28 In this collection contributors explore the experience of charity towards the poor considering it in spiritual intellectual emotional personal social cultural and material terms The approach is a comparative one across different time periods nations and faiths Contributors pay attention to the way faith inflected charity in England and France as Catholicism and Calvinism became outlawed and or minority faiths They ask how different beliefs shaped charity and explore whether these changed over time

Cultural Reformations Brian Cummings, James Simpson, 2010-06-24 The deepest periodic division in English

literary history has been between the medieval and the early modern Cultural Reformations initiates discussion on many fronts in which both periods look different in dialogue with each other Essays on Medieval Agriculture and General Problems of the Medieval Economy M. M. Postan, 2008-10-30 Includes The economic foundations of medieval society The rise of a money economy The chronology of labour services and The charters of the villeins Writing Masculinity in the Later Middle Ages Isabel Davis, 2007-02-22 Medieval discourses of masculinity and male sexuality were closely linked to the idea and representation of work as a male responsibility Isabel Davis identifies a discourse of masculine selfhood which is preoccupied with the ethics of labour and domestic living She analyses how five major London writers of the late fourteenth and early fifteenth centuries constructed the male self William Langland Thomas Usk John Gower Geoffrey Chaucer and Thomas Hoccleve These literary texts while they have often been considered for what they say about the feminine role and identity have rarely been thought of as evidence for masculinity this study seeks to redress that imbalance Looking again at the texts themselves and their cultural contexts Davis presents a genuinely fresh perspective on ideas about gender labour and domestic life in medieval Britain Socialising the Child in Late Medieval England, C. 1400-1600 Merridee L. Bailey, 2012 The question and procedures of integrating children into wider society during the medieval and early modern period are debated across a wide range of contemporary texts This study examines ways in which vernacular literature provided a guide to socialising children References on the History of Labor and Some Contemporary Labor Problems James William Black, 1893 Studies in the Age of Chaucer Frank Grady, 2005-10 Studies in the Age of Chaucer is the annual yearbook of the New Chaucer Society publishing articles on the writing of Chaucer and his contemporaries their antecedents and successors and their intellectual and social contexts More generally articles explore the culture and writing of later medieval Britain 1200 1500 Each SAC volume also includes an annotated bibliography and reviews of Chaucer related publications The Labor Movement: the Problem of To-day Terence Vincent Powderly, Edmund Janes James, 1887 The Labor Movement: the Problem of To-day George Edwin McNeill, Patrick J. Madden, 1890 The Journal of Medieval and Early Modern Studies , 2004 Constructing a Civic Community in Late Medieval London David Harry, 2019 An examination of the growth of civic power in the turbulent arena of late medieval London In the late fourteenth century London s government through mismanagement and negligence experienced a series of crises Relationships with the crown were tested competing factions sought to wrest power from the hands of the once all powerful victualling guilds revolt in the streets in 1381 targeted the institutions of royal as well as civic power and between 1392 and 1397 King Richard removed the liberties of the city and appointed his own wardensto govern in place of the mayor of London This book examines the strategies employed by the generation of London aldermen who governed after 1397 to regain control of their city By examining a range of interdisciplinary sources including manuscript and printed books administrative records accounts of civic ritual and epitaphs the author shows how by carefully constructing the idea of a civic community united by shared political concerns and spiritual ambitions a small number of men virtually monopolised power in the capital More generally this is an exploration of the mentalities of those who sought civic power in the late Middle Ages and provokes the question why govern and for whom DAVID HARRY is Lecturer in History at the University of Chester Justice and Grace Gwilym Dodd, 2007-07-26 Focussing on the key role of the English medieval parliament in hearing and determining the requests of the king's subjects this ground breaking new study examines the private petition and its place in the late medieval English parliament c 1270 1450 Until now historians have focussed on the political and financial significance of the English medieval parliament this book offers an important re evaluation placing the emphasis on parliament as a crucial element in the provision of royal government and justice It looks at the nature of medieval petitioning how requests were written and how and why petitioners sought redress specifically in parliament It also sheds new light on the concept of royal grace and its practical application to parliamentary petitions that required the king's personal intervention The book traces the development of private petitioning over a period of almost two hundred years from a point when parliament was essentially an instrument of royal administration to one where it was self consciously dispatching petitions as the highest court of the land Gwilym Dodd considers not only the detail of the petitionary process but also broader questions about the government of late medieval England His conclusions contribute to our understanding of the nature of medieval monarchy and its ability or willingness to address local difficulties as well as the nature of local society and the problems that faced individuals and communities in medieval society Labor Problems in American Industry Carroll R. Daugherty, 1941

The Voice of the Hammer Nicola Masciandaro, 2007 Analysing the literary representations of work this text looks at how late medieval authors influenced by the labour related crises of the 14th century sought to articulate the meaning of work in fresh and contrasting ways It analyses the Middle English terms to show how words for work were related to status and class attitudes An Introduction to English Economic History and Theory William James Ashley, 1893 English Literature from Widsith to the Death of Chaucer Allen Rogers Benham, 1916
