Problematic Behaviors During Adolescence:

Problematic Behaviors During Adolescence Jeffrey J. Haugaard, 2001 Adolescent Psychology courses often touch on problematic behaviors but rarely delve into the complex causes of these behaviors Dr Jeffrey Haugaard has written the only text to examine some of the most prevalent problematic behavior and provides students with a model for understanding the causes of such behavior Dr Haugaard uses college aged individuals in chapter opening cases to draw students into the content of the chapter The focus of the text is understanding the complex factors that contribute to developing behavior The book is designed to be used as a supplemental text in an Adolescent Psychology course where the instructor is interested in examining the causes behind the behavior It could also be used in a graduate Adolescent Psychopathology course

Risks and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Richard M. Lerner, Christine M. Ohannessian, 2014-02-04 The articles in this volume illustrate how development is propelled by the bidirectional relations that occur between the person and all levels of the context The authors argue that adolescent life is embedded in a complicated developmental system involving multiple features of the individual e.g biology emotions personality and cognition and the multiple levels of his or her social ecology e.g peers family school the workplace and the public policy and legal systems that structure and impact behavioural opportunities for and the actions of adolescents These articles have important implications for the design of interventions aimed at adolescent problem behaviours

Risk Behaviors in Maltreated Adolescents Heather Nicole Taussig, 1998 Maltreated youth are at risk of experiencing a host of short and long term consequences Although many studies have examined these outcomes few have examined the impact of maltreatment prospectively to determine what early responses might predict later functioning The current study examined risk behaviors in a cohort of adolescents who were removed from their homes as a result of maltreatment approximately five years ago Shortly after their removal the youth and their caretakers were interviewed about the youth's emotional social and behavioral functioning The current study re-interviewed those youth to determine their involvement in four domains of risk behavior sexual delinquent substance use and self destructive behaviors Information collected during the initial interview Time 1 was used to explore whether specific vulnerability and protective factors predicted differential engagement in risk behaviors The majority of the eligible subjects were located and interviewed 75% n 149 The interviewed group of subjects did not differ from the non interviewed group in any systematic ways Descriptive analyses suggested that this cohort of youth had engaged in a substantial number of risk behaviors which were related to experiencing a host of negative consequences The four domains of risk behavior loaded on a single factor that accounted for 65% of the variance supporting the concept of a unitary construct of risk behavior Bivariate analyses suggested that risk behaviors were positively correlated r range .17-.66 with negative outcomes e.g. pregnancies, arrests, residential treatment. The analyses also suggested that the Time 1 variables were related to current engagement in risk behaviors. For example, higher levels of externalizing behaviors and posttraumatic stress and lower levels of parental support were related to increased involvement in risk behaviors in adolescence (r range .16-.52). Hierarchical regression models demonstrated that a significant proportion of the variance in risk behaviors was accounted for by the overall models (R^2 range .10-.36) with the predictor variables significant over and above the control variables (R^2 change range .05-.25). These findings have implications for the specificity versus generality of risk behaviors debate. The limitations of the study as well as the implications of these findings for intervention efforts were discussed. The Influence of Maternal Employment on Adolescent Problem Behavior Catherine Hagen Yamoor, 1992 Psychological Disturbance in Adolescence Irving B. Weiner, 1992-01-17 What this book is about is how clinicians can do the best possible job of recognizing abnormal psychological development in an adolescent, identifying what kind of disturbance is present, and selecting effective methods of helping the young person overcome the problem. As in the earlier edition, the first two chapters offer a detailed survey of current theoretical issues in adolescent psychology: normality, abnormality in adolescence, and patterns of adolescent psychopathology. Also covered in these chapters are key issues of assessment, classification, and epidemiology. The remainder of the book, with the exception of the last chapter, is organized from the perspective of the practicing clinician and consists of chapters covering problems in adolescent patients including schizophrenia, depression, and suicide, school phobia, delinquent behavior, substance abuse, and more. Characteristics of Emotional and Behavioral

Disorders of Children and Youth James M. Kauffman, Timothy J. Landrum, 2009 This book is an introductory text in special education for children and youth with emotional and behavioural disorders. Because emotional and behavioural disorders are commonly observed in children and youth in all special education categories, the book will also be of value in courses dealing with the characteristics of intellectual disability, learning disabilities, or students in cross-categorical special education. Students in school psychology, educational psychology, or abnormal child psychology may also find the book useful. BOOK

Gullotta, 1994-04-29 Educators will find much useful information in Personal Relationships During Adolescence.
