Privatization and Economic Performance Matthew Bishop, Colin P. Mayer, John Anderson Kay, 2023 One of the most enduring legacies of the 1980s has been the programme of privatizations that the Thatcher government set in train in the first half of the decade Whole sectors of the UK economy which were formerly part of the public sector were sold off to the private sector Some were bought out by their employees others were bought by the public at large Some public services were contracted out to the private sector others were placed on a more commercial footing The UK privatization programme had an influence on economic policy throughout the world Privatization programmes were initiated in Asia South America and Africa as well as Europe and North America The most recent to experiment with privatizations have been the East European countries which have seen privatization as the fastest route to move from socialism to capitalism
