Jane M. Ferguson

Privileged Acceeb:

Accent on Privilege Katharine W. Jones, 2001 Accent on Privilege looks at the complexities of immigration asking how native and immigrant construct race gender class and national identity Katharine Jones investigates how white English immigrants live in the United States and how they use their status as privileged foreigners to gain the upper hand with Americans Their privilege she finds is created by both American Anglophilia and the ways they perform their identities as proper English women and men in their host country Jones looks at the cultural aspects of this performance how English people play up their accents stiff upper lip sense of humor and fashion even the way they drink beer The political and cultural ties between England and the US act as a backdrop for the identity negotiations of these English people many of whom do not even consider themselves to be immigrants This unique exploration of the workings of white privilege offers an important new understanding of the paradoxes of how class gender and race are formed in the US and by implication in the UK Author note Katharine W Jones is Assistant Professor of Sociology at Philadelphia University Repossessing Shanland Jane M. Ferguson, 2021-08-17 The Shan have been fighting since 1958 for the autonomous state in Southeast Asia they were promised Jane M Ferguson articulates Shanland as an ongoing project of resistance resilience and accommodation within Thailand and Myanmar showing how the Shan have forged a homeland and identity during great upheaval Workable Accents Vijay A. Ramjattan, 2025-07-10 An in depth exploration of how international teaching assistants ITAs make their accents workable to fulfill their duties as academic laborers In this book workable refers not only to manipulating an accent but also to ensuring that an accent achieves certain objectives such as being perceived as an intelligible speaker an expert educator and an acceptable worker Drawing on commentaries from ITAs working in Canadian universities Vijay A Ramjattan highlights how crafting a workable accent is not an apolitical endeavor but rather a practice that works within and against the various communicative affordances of neoliberal academia Just as it can involve fashioning one's voice to satisfy oppressive communication norms a workable accent can also contest these norms to varying degrees Ramjattan ultimately demonstrates that academic institutions must do a better job at addressing how vocally marginalized workers are heard at work Language and Region Joan C. Beal, 2006 This indispensable guide to regional variation in the English language covers topical issues and examines the use of dialect in media advertising and the tourist industry The Experiences of International Faculty in Institutions of Higher Education Chris R. Glass, Krishna Bista, Xi Lin, 2021-08-12 Responding to the growing need for recruitment and retention of international talent in higher education institutions globally this volume documents the experiences and contribution of international graduate students researchers and faculty This text foregrounds perspectives around recruitment transition integration professional development and the retention of scholars originating from or arriving in countries including China Australia Iraq Japan and the US By investigating the support systems that are in place to assist foreign born faculty members in institutes of higher education the text provides important insights for departments and institutions as they look to successfully attract and retain global academic talent Moreover the scientific and practical implications of the research presented in the text directly informs institutional policy working towards more effective inclusive and equitable ways to support international faculty This text will benefit researchers academics and educators with an interest in higher education international and comparative education and more specifically those involved with faculty development programs The text will also support further discussion and reflection around multicultural education international teaching and learning and educational policy more broadly Thinking with an Accent Pooja Rangan,2023-02-21 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press s Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more Everyone speaks with an accent but what is an accent Thinking with an Accent introduces accent as a powerfully coded yet underexplored mode of perception that includes looking listening acting reading and thinking This volume convenes scholars of media literature education law language and sound to theorize accent as an object of inquiry an interdisciplinary method and an embodied practice Accent does more than just denote identity from algorithmic bias and corporate pedagogy to migratory poetics and the politics of comparison accent mediates global economies of discrimination and desire Accents happen between bodies and media They negotiate power and invite attunement These essays invite the reader to think with an accent to practice a dialogical and multimodal inquiry that can yield transformative modalities of knowledge action and care Wissenschaftliche Zeitschrift Pädagogische Hochschule Potsdam,1980 Issue for 1968 includes a history of the school 1948 68 Walker's Pronouncing Dictionary of the English Language John Walker,1874 Language and Language Learning ,1965 LASU Journal of Humanities ,1989 Studia Anglica Posnaniensia ,2001 Javnost ,2001 Parents: their position, privileges, and prospects.
