Problematizing Blackness Jean Muteba Rahier, Percy Hintzen, 2014-04-08 This cutting edge piece of scholarship studies the invisibility of the black migrants in popular consciousness and intellectual discourse in the United States through the interrogation of actual members of this community      Transnational Black Feminism and Qualitative Research Tanja J. Burkhard, 2021-11-16 Transnational Black Feminism and Qualitative Research invites readers to consider what it means to conduct research within their own communities by interrogating local and global contexts of colonialism race and migration The qualitative data at the centre of this book stem from a yearlong qualitative study of the lived experiences of Black women who migrated to or spent a significant amount of time in the United States as well as from the author's experiences as a Black German woman and former international student It proposes Transnational Black Feminism as a framework in qualitative inquiry Methodological considerations emerging from and complementary to this framework critically explore qualitative concepts such as reciprocity care and the ethics with which research is conducted to account for shifts in power dynamics in the research process and to radically work against the dehumanization of participants their communities and researchers This short and accessible book is ideal for qualitative researchers graduate students and feminist scholars interested in the various dimensions of racialization coloniality language and migration      Stigma and Culture J. Lorand Matory, 2015-12-02 In Stigma and Culture J Lorand Matory provocatively shows how ethnic identification in the United States and around the globe is a competitive and hierarchical process in which populations especially of historically stigmatized races seek status and income by dishonoring other stigmatized populations And there is no better place to see this than among the African American elite in academia where he explores the emergent ethnic identities of African and Caribbean immigrants and transmigrants Gullah Geechees Louisiana Creoles and even Native Americans of partly African ancestry Matory describes the competitive process that hierarchically structures their self definition as ethnic groups and the similar process by which middle class African Americans seek distinction from their impoverished compatriots Drawing on research at universities such as Howard Harvard and Duke and among their alumni networks he details how university life while facilitating individual upward mobility touting human equality and regaling cultural diversity also perpetuates the cultural standards that historically justified the dominance of some groups over others Combining his ethnographic findings with classic theoretical insights from Frantz Fanon Fredrik Barth Erving Goffman Pierre Bourdieu and others alongside stories from his own life in academia Matory sketches the university as an institution that particularly through the anthropological vocabulary of culture encourages the stigmatized to stratify their own      Problematizing Blackness Jean Muteba Rahier, Percy Hintzen, 2014-04-08 This cutting edge piece of scholarship studies the invisibility of the black migrants in popular consciousness and intellectual discourse in the United States through the interrogation of actual members of this community      Reproducing Domination Percy C.
