The Locales Framework G. Fitzpatrick, 2013-06-29 So much technology works not by good design or by being a good fit to purpose but because people make it work because they have to for some reason We humans are incredibly creative and resourceful when it comes to getting something done There are numerous stories we could all tell of the ingenious workarounds we've developed to make something do what we want it to or the enormous amount of time we've spent trying to find out how to make some technology work as we want e.g. trying to find out how to turn off auto editing commands in a word processing package when all we want is for it to do what we tell it. A good example of this principle was what motivated me to switch from neural networks to the area of Computer Supported Cooperative Work (CSCW) for my PhD research. I had undertaken a case study looking at the deployment of a multi million dollar health information system throughout a hospital network. Workflow Management Systems for Process Organisations Thomas Schael, 2007-12-03. All of us have learned a lot during this exercise and the enormous success of the first edition of this book shows the great international interest for the topic and the results. A French edition appeared last year and met with equal interest. Springer Verlag has therefore decided to publish a second edition of this book which is not just a reprint but brings the literature and results to the newest state. This is a rare occurrence in the history of the LNCS series. We congratulate Thomas Schael on this success and we are sure that reader scientists and practitioners will likewise profit from it. Aachen and Milan. Giorgio De Michelis, Klaus Henning, Matthias Jarke. August 1998. Preface to the Second Edition. This book is a bit of a mixture of scientific and management literature. It is based on my research activities in the CSCW community and also reflects the last ten years of my professional experience in consulting. I have had the opportunity to live in different cultural settings, to work in many companies and to meet people all over the world which has helped me to reflect on what I was doing and to focus on the content of this book. This second edition reflects the fast moving field of Computer Supported Cooperative Work (CSCW) and the discussion on Business Process Re engineering (BPR). It contains the latest developments in the scientific and managerial discussion of the issues developed in the first edition.

Awareness Systems Panos Markopoulos, Wendy Mackay, 2009-06-22. People go about their daily tasks with an in built awareness of their social and physical environments. This awareness helps them to work cooperatively in groups, coordinate actions and to maintain and enhance social communication with others. Networked technology has extended the reach of people's awareness to remote and distributed groups and provided access to a much larger social network than was previously feasible. Awareness systems that are designed to support people to build up, maintain and make use of these extended networks are attracting the interest of industry and include buddy lists in instant messaging, sustained audio video links, active contact lists on mobile phones and so forth. This book contains contributions from leading researchers in the field and looks at the design of awareness systems from theoretical foundations through to empirical studies and design concepts and will be of interest to practitioners and researchers in the field of HCI.
