Perspectives In Primate Biology:

Perspectives in Primate Biology A. Chiarelli, 1974-09-01 The present volume is the result of a NATO Advanced Study Institute held in Montaldo Turin Italy between the 7 and 19 June 1972 The aim of the Study Institute has been the development of a general philosophy for the science of Primatology Lecturers were selected from those scientists deeply involved and interested in this field The course intended to serve students and researchers using primates in medical and biological research but especially those interested in the natural history of the group and in human biology In the past the study of primates was largely limited to determine the origin of the human species Today however interest in them extends far beyond this narrow focus In terms of both practical human purposes and theoretical interests the study of primate biology and behaviour is of ever increasing importance Their close comparative relationships with man has proved of such great value to human biology and medicine that their numbers and kinds are quickly dwindling For this reason one of the main focuses of the ASI was on their reproductive biology and conservation During the meeting days a broad series of lectures on specific topics of comparative anatomy physiology endocrinology reproductive physiology genetics and molecular biology cytogenetics and behaviour were delivered by leading primatologists Perspectives In Primate Biology P.
