Perspectives on Ancient Maya Rural Complexity Samuel V. Connell, Gyles Iannone, 2003-12-01 Settlement archaeology in the Maya area has focused much of its attention on the polar extremes of the settlement continuum. As a result of this urban-rural bias, a whole range of complex rural settlements remain underexplored. The chapters in this volume highlight the variable quality of these middle-level settlements. Least Cost Analysis of Social Landscapes Devin A. White, Devin Alan White, Sarah L. Surface-Evans, 2012-03-13 Case studies that act as a guidebook to archaeologists on the uses of least cost analysis using GIS methodologies. Chotuna and Chornancap Christopher B. Donnan, 2012-12-31 Christopher Donnan's Chotuna and Chornancap Excavating an Ancient Peruvian Legend explores one of the most intriguing oral histories passed down among ancient Peruvians: the legend of Naymlap, the founder of a dynasty that ruled the Lambayeque Valley of northern Peru centuries before European contact. Naymlap is said to have built his palace at a place that many now consider to be the archaeological sites of Chotuna and Chornancap. In an effort to test the validity of the Naymlap legend, Donnan directed extensive archaeological excavations at Chotuna and Chornancap, completing plans of the monumental architecture, mapping and excavating most of the major structures, and developing a chronology for the sites. This book presents the results of these excavations and demonstrates the extent to which the archaeological evidence correlates with the sequence of events described in the Naymlap legend. The Chanka Brian S. Bauer, Lucas C. Kellett, Miriam Araoz Silva, 2010-12-31 In AD 1438 a battle took place outside the city of Cuzco that changed the course of South American history. The Chanka, a powerful ethnic group from the Andahuaylas region, had begun an aggressive program of expansion. Conquering a host of smaller polities, their army had advanced well inside the territory of their traditional rival, the Inca. In a series of unusual maneuvers, the Inca defeated the invading Chanka forces and became the most powerful people in the Andes. Many scholars believe that the defeat of the Chanka represents a defining moment in the history of South America, as the Inca then continued to expand and establish the largest empire of the Americas. Despite its critical position in South American history, until recently the Chanka heartland remained unexplored, and the cultural processes that led to their rapid development and subsequent defeat by the Inca had not been investigated. From 2001 to 2004, Brian Bauer conducted an archaeological survey of the Andahuaylas region. This project represents an unparalleled opportunity to examine theoretical issues concerning the history and cultural development of late prehistoric societies in this area of the Andes. The resulting book includes an archaeological analysis on the development of the Chanka and examines their ultimate defeat by the Inca. Inca Rituals and Sacred Mountains Maria Constanza Ceruti, Johan Reinhard, 2010-12-31 The Incas carried out some of the most dramatic ceremonies known to us from ancient times. Groups of people walked hundreds of miles across arid and mountainous terrain to perform them on mountains over 6,096 m (20,000 feet) high. The most important offerings made during these pilgrimages involved human sacrifices, capacochas. Although Spanish chroniclers wrote about these offerings and the state sponsored processions of which they were a part their accounts were based on second hand sources and the only direct evidence we have of the capacocha sacrifices comes to us from archaeological excavations Some of the most thoroughly documented of these were undertaken on high mountain summits where the material evidence has been exceptionally well preserved In this study we describe the results of research undertaken on Mount Llullaillaco 6 739 m 22 109 feet which has the world s highest archaeological site The types of ruins and artifact assemblages recovered are described and analyzed By comparing the archaeological evidence with the chroniclers accounts and with findings from other mountaintop sites common patterns are demonstrated while at the same time previously little known elements contribute to our understanding of key aspects of Inca religion This study illustrates the importance of archaeological sites being placed within the broader context of physical and sacred features of the natural landscape

Settlement and Subsistence in Early Formative

Soconusco Richard G. Lesure, 2010-12-31 The Soconusco region a narrow strip of the Pacific coast of Mexico and Guatemala is the location of some of the earliest pottery using villages of ancient Mesoamerica Mobile early inhabitants of the area harvested marsh clams in the estuaries leaving behind vast mounds of shell With the introduction of pottery and the establishment of permanent villages from 1900 B C use of the resource rich estuary changed The archaeological manifestation of that new estuary adaptation is a dramatic pattern of inter site variability in pottery vessel forms Vessels at sites within the estuary were about seventy percent neckless jars tecomates while vessels at contemporaneous sites a few kilometers inland were seventy percent open dishes The pattern is well known but the the settlement arrangements or subsistence practices that produced it have remained unclear Archaeological investigations at El Varal a special purpose estuary site of the later Early Formative 1250 1000 B C expand possibilities for an anthropological understanding of the archaeological patterns The goal of this volume is to describe excavations and finds at the site and to propose based on a variety of analyses a new understanding of Early Formative assemblage variability

An Investigation into Early Desert

Pastoralism Steven A. Rosen, 2011-10-11 Negev focuses on two primary purposes one theoretical methodological and the second substantive Briefly stated the book comprises a case study of excavations at an early ca 2800 B C pastoral site in the Negev providing detailed analyses and a synthetic overview of a seasonal encampment from this early period in the evolution of desert pastoral societies It thus both demonstrates the feasibility of an archaeology of early mobile pastoralism and grapples with the basic anthropological and methodological issues surrounding the subject Substantively both the architectural and material culture assemblages uncovered constitute the first detailed analysis of this early desert culture and include materials previously unreported for the region and period Historically the Camel Site is placed in a larger perspective of the beginnings of multiresource nomadism in relation to the rise of complex societies

Visions of

Tiwanaku Charles Stanish, Alexei Vranich, 2013-12-31 For over half a millennium the megalithic ruins of Tiwanaku in the highlands of the Andes mountains have stood as proxy for the desires and ambitions of various empires and political agendas in the last hundred years scholars have attempted to answer the question What was Tiwanaku by examining these shattered remains from a distant preliterate past This volume contains twelve papers from senior scholars whose contributions discuss subjects from the farthest points of the southern Andes where the iconic artifacts of Tiwanaku appear as offerings to the departed to the heralded ruins weathered by time and burdened by centuries of interpretation and speculation Visions of Tiwanaku stays true to its name by providing a platform for each scholar to present an informed view on the nature of this enigmatic place that seems so familiar yet continues to elude understanding by falling outside our established models for early cities and states

The History of the Peoples of the Eastern Desert Hans Barnard, Kim Duistermaat, 2012-12-31 The last quarter century has seen extensive research on the ports of the Red Sea coast of Egypt the road systems connecting them to the Nile and the mines and quarries in the region Missing has been a systematic study of the peoples of the Eastern Desert the area between the Red Sea and the Nile Valley in whose territories these ports roads mines and quarries were located The historical overview of the Eastern Desert in the shape of a roughly chronological narrative presented in this book fills that gap The multidisciplinary perspective focuses on the long term history of the region The extensive range of topics addressed includes specific historical periods natural resources nomadic survival strategies ancient textual data and the interaction between Christian hermits and their neighbors The breadth of perspective does not sacrifice depth for all authors deal in some detail with the specifics of their subject matter As a whole this collection provides an outline of the history and sociology of the Eastern Desert unparalleled in any language for its comprehensiveness As such it will be the essential starting point for future research on the Eastern Desert Includes a CD of eleven audio files with music of the Ababda Nomads and six short videos of Ababda culture

The South American Camelids Duccio Bonavia, 2008 In this book Duccio Bonavia tackles major questions about these camelids from their domestication to their distribution at the time of the Spanish conquest One of Bonavia's hypotheses is that the arrival of the Europeans and their introduced Old World animals forced the Andean camelids away from the Pacific coast creating the mistaken impression that camelids were exclusively high altitude animals Bonavia also addresses the diseases of camelids and their population density suggesting that the original camelid populations suffered from a different type of mange than that introduced by the Europeans This new mange he believes was one of the causes behind the great morbidity of camelids in Colonial times In terms of domestication while Bonavia believes that the major centers must have been the puna zone intermediate zones he adds that the process should not be seen as restricted to a single environmental zone

The Dead Tell Tales Maria Cecilia Lozada, Barra O'Donnabhain, 2013-12-31 Honoring Jane Buikstra's pioneering work in the development of bioarchaeological research the essays in this volume stem from a symposium held at the annual meeting of the Society for American Archaeology Multiple generations of Buikstra's former doctoral students and other colleagues gathered to discuss the impact of her mentorship The essays are remarkable for their breadth in terms of both the topics discussed and the geographical range they cover The contributions highlight the dynamism of bioarchaeology which owes so much to the strong foundations laid down over the last few decades The volume documents the degree to which bioarchaeological approaches have become normalized and integrated into anthropological research bioarchaeology has moved out of the appendix and into the interpretation of archaeological data New perspectives have emerged partly in response to theoretical changes within anthropology but also as a result of the engagement of the broader discipline with bioarchaeology Challenging "commoner" Chelsea Blackmore,2008 Excavations at Cerro Azul, Peru Joyce Marcus,2008 The Cerro Azul volume is extensively illustrated showing both the details of the tapia architecture and the individual pottery collections from each room and midden Jacket Journal of Mesoamerican Studies ,2007 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1991 Kasapata and the Archaic Period of the Cuzco Valley Brian S. Bauer,2007 It was widely believed that the first inhabitants of the Cuzco Valley were farmers who lived in scattered villages and that there were no Archaic Period remains in the region until a systematic survey of the valley when numerous preceramic sites were found This is the first overview of the Archaic Period 9000 2200 BC in the Cu
