

Political Socialization

Gender and Ethnicity

Gender and ethnic identity affect our political loyalties. Men are more likely to vote Republican than women. Black voters are more likely than white voters to cast ballots for Democrats.

Peer Groups

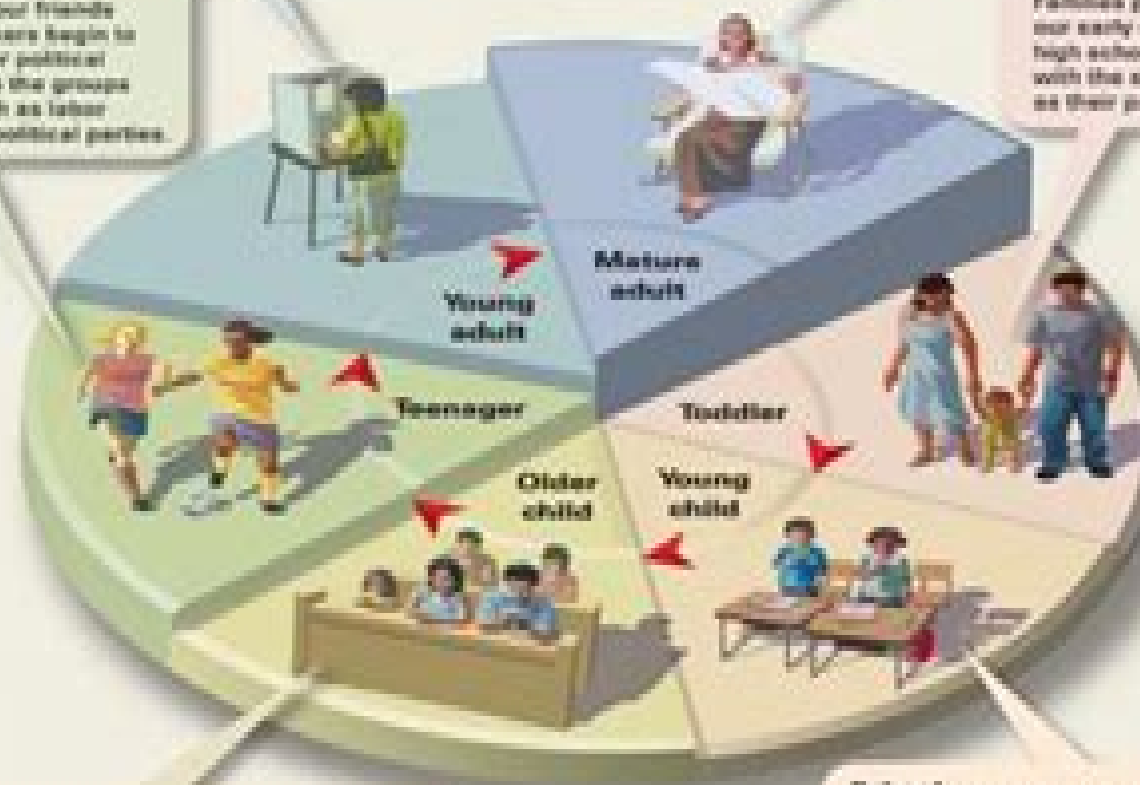

As we age, our friends and co-workers begin to influence our political views. So do the groups we join, such as labor unions and political parties.

News Media

The news media influence what we pay attention to as adults. The effects of the media vary with our reading and viewing habits.

Family

Families play a large role in our early socialization. Most high school seniors identify with the same political party as their parents.

Religion

Religious teachings help shape political values. People may have more conservative or more liberal views based on their religious beliefs.

School

Schools teach us to love our country, respect the law, and value our rights. The more education Americans get, the more likely they are to participate in politics.

Gimpel, J. Celeste Lay, Jason E. Schuknecht, 2003-10-15 Scholars across several social science disciplines have indicated that the behavior described by the term civic engagement is girded by a set of attitudes that show knowledge about and positive evaluations of government and politics Drawing on extensive interviews with high school students from a variety of socioeconomic backgrounds Cultivating Democracy examines the sources of those attitudes including individual characteristics and the qualities of local environments that shape the experiences of late adolescence The authors gathered data on adolescent attitudes by interviewing students in a wide variety of locations from Baltimore s inner city and suburbs to the most affluent communities in Montgomery County Maryland Focusing initially on attitudes toward ethnic diversity and immigration the authors expanded their focus to the political socialization of young people including patriotism and political knowledge and participation The authors demonstrate how political socialization is shaped through the social messages presented to citizens by others According to Gimpel Lay and Schuknecht while formal education as a means of socializing youth is critically important other useful means for communicating positive socializing messages through political parties elections and the media have been ignored They recommend compensatory strategies to promote civic engagement among those who are at risk to be nonparticipants Impact of Political Socialization on the Support for Democratic Principles: Emerging Research and Opportunities Allison Clark, 2020 Political Participation and Learning Kenneth P. be explored in the substantive discussions of democracy and democratisation in relation to individuals as well as political systems. If educational policy is social policy, if a democratic society demands citizens who are educated and thus capable of political action, the themes Political Education and Political Socialisation need to be addressed anew and this is equally important for a rethinking of the future of the political more generally. The contributions to the book contribute to a challenging debate.
