Pregnancy And Abortion Counselling:

Pregnancy and Abortion Counselling Joanna Brien, Ida Fairbairn, 2003-09-02 Pregnancy and Abortion Counselling is written for professionals who give information and support to women deciding whether to terminate or continue with their pregnancy. The authors provide a comprehensive review of the social, moral and legal issues surrounding contraception and abortion and offer clear guidelines for establishing good practice. Illustrated throughout with case examples, the book includes detailed information on current legislation, methods of abortion, stages of foetal development, screening for foetal abnormality, client confidentiality and consent, ethical considerations. This book is relevant to many health professionals including doctors, health visitors, midwives and nurses as well as those involved in community work and counselling.

Pregnancy and Abortion Counselling Joanna Brien, Ida Fairbairn, 1996 Aimed at professionals in the field, it provides a comprehensive review of the social, moral and legal issues surrounding contraception and abortion and offers clear guidelines for establishing good practice. Counselling Services for Sterilisation, Vasectomy and Termination of Pregnancy Isobel Allen, 1985 Abortion in Debate Church of Scotland. Board of Social Responsibility, 1987 Abortion Counseling Rachel B. Needle, Lenore Walker, EdD, 2008 The majority of women who have had abortions report feeling happy, satisfied and relieved following their abortion. Some few women who have had an abortion may experience some feelings of guilt and sadness; however, this rarely lasts longer than a few days. Those very few women who present with prolonged feelings of sadness and mental health problems are women who have either had these problems prior to their abortion, had other risk factors or were influenced by frightening demonstrations and inaccurate, biased information provided prior to the abortion. Through this book, the authors hope to train general therapists and counselors in pre and post abortion counseling techniques to avoid women experiencing unnecessary psychological problems created by those who insist that the non-existent post-abortion syndrome exists. Abortion counseling has a critical role to play in ensuring women's mental health is the priority and not the goals of a political agenda. Thus, Needle and Walker have taken on a complex, profound and essential task, equipping therapists and abortion counselors with the knowledge and skills needed to help their clients, and they have done it well. Readers of this book should gain an increased understanding of how women's diverse life circumstances affect their ability to cope with the difficult decisions and circumstances surrounding abortion. They will also be better able to build women's resilience and coping skills by having considered them both in the context of women's lives, e.g. coping resources, social support, partner violence, incidence of depression and in the context of socio-political agendas that seek to manipulate women's mental health in order to undermine women's reproductive rights. In the final analysis, it is important to remember that abortion counseling is not about abortion; it is about women confronting the decision to bear a child with all of the profound and life-changing commitments and responsibilities that entails. From the Foreword by Nancy Felipe Russo PhD, Regents Professor of Psychology, Arizona State University. Unwanted Pregnancy and Counselling Juliet Cheetham, 2022-02-16 There was a growing concern in the 1970s about the number of unwanted pregnancies and the problems these posed for parents children and society Originally published in 1977 this was the first book which with extensive reference to research material and illustrative case studies provided a comprehensive analysis of the social and psychological background to unwanted pregnancy and a guide to ways of helping the people concerned It should still be useful to doctors nurses midwives teachers social workers and other professional and lay people whose work brings them into contact with those who are unhappy about a pregnancy Juliet Cheetham whose previous contributions to the problem areas of social welfare are widely respected discusses the different meanings of unwanted pregnancy and goes on to explore its relationship to the changing position of women to the role of the contemporary family to the special problems experienced by natural children and their parents to existing social and medical provisions She examines the possibilities risks and limitations of the various responses to unwanted pregnancy and the services available at the time and analyses the difficulties men and women experience in using contraception Juliet Cheetham shows how the beliefs and attitudes of lay and professional people can influence their understanding of and response to these highly controversial and emotional subjects She offers suggestions about the ways in which this influence may be appropriately modified and the book concludes with a discussion of the special opportunities and problems of counselling those faced with an unwanted pregnancy Psychological and Medical Aspects of Induced Abortion ,1988-06-10 Listing of five hundred titles that are either classics in the field or representational of the kinds of writing being published on the subjects of interest Also includes some audiovisuals Contains English language and translated works Topical arrangement Author title subject indexes Contraception, Abortion, and Sterilization K. Medical Counseling Before Pregnancy Dorothy Reycroft Hollingsworth,Robert Resnik,1988 Designed to help physicians and counsellors give the best medical advice in the risk benefit ratio for the foetus and new baby this book looks at the factors influencing reproductive decisions genetic counselling and preconception counselling for women with special medical problems Women's Health in a Changing Society: Behavioural aspects of health ,1978 Contraceptive counselling in abortion care Helena Kilander,2018-11-26 Introduction Improving women s knowledge about contraception and their access to contraceptive methods is central in order to strengthen their sexual and reproductive rights at the time of an abortion Contraceptive counselling aims to support women s reproductive control and prevent unintended pregnancies UPs It is unclear however how to provide contraceptive counselling and how to organise services at the time of an abortion in order to achieve this Aim The overall aim was to study women s choices and use of contraceptive methods post abortion The research also aimed to describe contraceptive counselling in the context of an abortion from women s and health professionals HP s perspectives Initial studies informed subsequent improvement efforts also evaluated in the thesis regarding contraceptive counselling and services at the time of an abortion Design and Methods The studies in this thesis involve both quantitative studies I and IV and qualitative studies II IV methods performed at six departments in southeast Sweden Study I had a quantitative and longitudinal design The medical records of women n 987 were reviewed regarding women s choice of contraceptive method at the index abortion and the odds of repeat abortion within three to four years Studies II and III were qualitative interview studies in which 13 women study II and 21 healthcare professionals HPs study III described their experiences of contraceptive counselling at the time of an abortion The interviews were analysed using interpretive phenomenology study II and conventional content analysis study III Study IV was a case study regarding a qualitative improvement collaborative QIC designed to improve contraceptive counselling and services Three multi professional teams involved in abortion care participated in the QIC and two women provided user experience input Both qualitative and quantitative data were collected and analysed Results The findings of the thesis are organised into three themes I Women and HPs described contraceptive counselling at the time of an abortion as an often complex meeting There was scepticism about contraceptive methods and limited receptivity to information among women Respectful counselling facilitated women s choice of contraceptive method even if they were sceptical and found the situation emotionally charged II Women s choices need for guidance and access to the contraceptive methods was described in the second theme Choice of oral contraceptives OC dominated Overall 25% of the women experienced repeat abortion during followup Women who chose long acting reversible contraception LARC experienced fewer repeat abortions compared to women who chose OC Both women and HPs reported barriers in access to LARC post abortion III In a Quality Improvement Collaborative QIC two volunteering women provided user experience input HPs participating in this QIC reported strengthened skills in counselling and enhanced ability to evaluate their performance Despite the team s prediction that they would reach the QIC goal that 50% of women would start LARC within 30 days post abortion and the fact that a majority of the women in QIC units chose LARC none of the teams managed to reach the goal primarily due to insufficient capacity for timely initiation of LARC Conclusion The findings suggest that women need respectful counselling and guidance at the time of an abortion Access to a range of contraceptive methods particularly LARC is important to prevent repeat UPs There is room for further improvement in offering coordinated and timely access for women who choose LARC and to evaluate counselling in the present settings Sexuality Counseling
