Postfeminism, Postrace and Digital Politics in Asian American Food Blogs Tisha Dejmanee, 2022-12-26 This book examines how Asian American women bloggers challenge dominant race and gender discourses through the practice of food blogging. Asian American food blogs which situate recipes and food photography within the personal narratives and domestic spaces of Asian American women offer unique insights into the ways that hegemonic race and gender discourses are negotiated in quotidian life. The genre's focus on food provides a particularly rich backdrop for this study as it necessarily implicates family histories, gendered labour, domestic spaces and the power dynamics of consumption. These intimate digital texts therefore provide unique insights into the ways that postfeminist and postrace discourses are encountered in the individual's mundane experiences. The author engages a critical cultural analysis of food blogs, narratives, images, communities and platforms. Expressions of post-race and feminism discourses are constrained by the commercial logics of this digital culture. The author argues that while Asian American food blogs rarely present a sustained challenge to hegemonic identity representation, the processes of reproduction and rupture that define this blogosphere consistently reveal the collective desire to push back against the limits of post-identities. This is a unique and fascinating study which is ideal reading for students and scholars of gender studies, media studies, cultural studies and sociology.

Branded Content Jonathan Hardy, 2021-08-26 This is a critical study of the changing relationship between media and marketing communications in the digital age. It examines the growth of content funded by brands including brands' own media, native advertising and the integration of branded content across film, television, journalism and publishing, online, mobile and social media. This ambitious historical, empirical and theoretical study examines industry practices, policies and problems, advancing a framework for analysis of communications governance. Featuring examples from the UK, US, EU, Asia and other regions, it illustrates and explains industry practices, forms and formats and their relationship with changing market conditions, policies and regulation. The book provides a wide-ranging and incisive guide to contemporary advertising and media practices to different arguments and perspectives on these practices arising in industry policy and academic contexts and to the contribution made by critical scholarship past and present It also offers a critical review of industry regulatory societal and academic literatures Jonathan Hardy examines the erosion of the principle of separating advertising and media and calls for a new framework for distinguishing marketing communications across 21st century communications With a focus on key issues in industry policy and academic contexts this is essential reading for students of media industries advertising marketing and digital media
