Political Economy Of Diet And Health:

The Political Economy of Diet, Health and Food Policy Ben Fine,1998 The Routledge Handbook of the Political Economy of Health and Healthcare David Primrose,Rodney D. Loepky,Robin Chang,2024-02-28 This handbook provides a comprehensive and critical overview of the gamut of contemporary issues around health and healthcare from a political economy perspective Its contributions present a unique challenge to prevailing economic accounts of health and healthcare which narrowly focus on individual behaviour and market processes Instead the capacity of the human body to reach its full potential and the ability of society to prevent disease and cure illness are demonstrated to be shaped by a broader array of political economic processes The material conditions in which societies produce distribute exchange consume and reproduce and the operation of power relations therein influence all elements of human health from food consumption and workplace safety to inequality healthcare and housing and even the biophysical conditions in which humans live This volume explores these concerns across five sections First it introduces and critically engages with a variety of established and cutting edge theoretical perspectives in political economy to conceptualise health and healthcare from neoclassical and behavioural economics to Marxist and feminist approaches The next two sections extend these insights to evaluate the neoliberalisation of health and healthcare over the past 40 years highlighting their individualisation and commodification by the capitalist state and powerful corporations The fourth section examines the diverse manifestation of these dynamics across a range of geographical contexts The volume concludes with a section devoted to outlining more progressive health and healthcare arrangements which transcend the limitations of both neoliberalism and capitalism This volume will be an indispensable reference work for students and scholars of political economy health policy and politics health economics health geography the sociology of health and other health related disciplines Chapters 1-8 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND 4.0 license The Political Economy of Food System Transformation Danielle Resnick,Johan Swinnen,2023-09-21 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC 4.0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations The current structure of the global food system is increasingly recognized as unsustainable In addition to the environmental impacts of agricultural production unequal patterns of food access and availability are contributing to non communicable diseases in middle and high income countries and inadequate caloric intake and dietary diversity among the world's poorest To this end there have been a growing number of academic and policy initiatives aimed at advancing food system transformation including the 2021 UN Food Systems Summit the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and several UN Climate conferences Yet the policy pathways for achieving a transformed food system are highly contested and the enabling conditions for implementation are frequently absent Furthermore a broad range of polarizing factors affect decisions over the food system at domestic and international levels

from debates over values and mis information to concerns over food self sufficiency corporate influence and human rights This volume explicitly analyses the political economy dynamics of food system transformation with contributors who span several disciplines including economics ecology geography nutrition political science and public policy The chapters collectively address the range of interests institutions and power in the food system the diversity of coalitions that form around food policy issues and the tactics they employ the ways in which policies can be designed and sequenced to overcome opposition to reform and processes of policy adaptation and learning Drawing on original surveys interviews empirical modelling and case studies from China the European Union Germany Mexico South Asia sub Saharan Africa and the United States the book touches on issues as wide ranging as repurposing agricultural subsidies agricultural trade biotechnology innovations red meat consumption sugar sweetened beverage taxes and much more The political economy of food and nutrition policies Per Pinstrup-Andersen,1993-01-01 Few nutritionists and economists fully appreciate how the political environment shapes policy and subsequently affects the relevance of their policy recommendations When governments fail to follow the recommendations of nutritionists and economists and are unable to design and implement cost effective nutrition programs and policies it is often attributed to politics or to lack of political will on the part of decisionmakers Past nutrition planning efforts frequently failed to understand the goals and behavior of the various agents and institutions inside and outside the government that in the final analysis determine whether the planning effort is successful In The Political Economy of Food and Nutrition Policies Per Pinstrup Andersen brings together a group of distinguished authorities to improve the understanding of how nutrition policies are formulated within larger political and economic contexts and how public sector agencies behave with regard to food and nutrition The Political Economy of Diet and Health Ben Fine,1998

Healthy and Sustainable Food Systems Mark Lawrence,Sharon Friel,2019-10-18 This comprehensive text provides the latest research on key concepts principles and practices for promoting healthy and sustainable food systems There are increasing concerns about the impact of food systems on environmental sustainability and in turn the impact of environmental sustainability on the capacity of food systems to protect food and nutrition security into the future The contributors to this book are leading researchers in the causes of and solutions to these challenges As international experts in their fields they provide in depth analyses of the issues and evidence informed recommendations for future policies and practices Starting with an overview of ideas about health sustainability and equity in relation to food systems Healthy and Sustainable Food Systems examines what constitutes a food system with chapters on production manufacturing distribution and retail among others The text explores health and sustainable diets looking at issues such as overconsumption and waste The book ends with discussions about the politics policy personal behaviours and advocacy behind creating healthy and sustainable food systems With a food systems approach to health and sustainability identified as a priority area for public health this text introduces core knowledge for students academics practitioners and policy makers from a range of disciplines including food and nutrition sciences dietetics public health public policy medicine health science and environmental science

The Political Economy of Food and Nutrition Policies During the Macroeconomic Adjustment in Venezuela, 1989-1994 Elizabeth Rauseo, 1997 The Political Economy of Food and Agriculture in the Caribbean Belal Ahmed, 1996 This text presents an analysis of the agricultural and food producing sector of the English speaking Caribbean island economies set in historical perspective It discusses the reasons for the relative decline of this sector and the failure of policy proposals for its resuscitation Issues examined include the legacy of the plantation economy which emphasizes luxury export crops over basic food production the reliance on multinational donor funding for economic development and the resulting manipulation of agricultural projects by such external agencies and liberalization of the market economy leading to more underdevelopment of the region and dependence on the international market system The Herald of Health Thomas Low Nichols, 1881 Nutrition and Health Advertising Pauline M. Ippolito, Janis K. Pappalardo, 2003 This book reviews data on the types of claims made in 11 647 advertisements taken from a sample of eight leading magazines between 1977 and 1997 The primary focus of this study is on advertising claims related to health and nutrition but it also examines other types of advertising claims The book goes on to further review how nutrition related claims in advertising changed under the various regulatory policies in place during these years It is revealed that nutrition related claims were a major focus of food advertising and an important focus of competition during the two decade period covered by the report Moreover data indicate a sustained movement toward specific nutrient claims such as low fat in place of or in addition to more general nutrition claims such as nutritious This study finds that changes in advertising content appear to be associated with changes in regulatory rules and enforcement policies Broad Trends in Food Advertising Nutrition Claims in Food Advertising Health Claims in Food Advertising Regulation and Advertising Claims Economics of Advertising Issues and Evidence Conclusion References Index A Sociology of Food and Nutrition John Germov, Lauren Williams, 1999 This innovative book examines the social context of food and nutrition by exploring the socio cultural political economic and philosophical factors that influence food production and consumption Whitaker's Books in Print, 1998 The Politics of Dietary Change Michael Mills, 1992 This book explains why food policy in Britain has become so controversial in the last decade using as a case study the policies to reduce cholesterol levels though the findings are relevant to other issues in food policy The author suggests that neither the Department of Health nor the Ministry of Agriculture Fisheries and Food have a great deal to gain from large scale changes in food policies or food consumption The historical division of responsibilities between the two means that the Department of Health has surprisingly little control over food policies and is reluctant to commit itself to challenging the targets of cholesterol levels or other changes which will require the co operation of the Ministry of Agriculture Fisheries and Food Historically that Ministry has been concerned to produce as much food as possible The question of food quality has therefore tended to remain politically underdeveloped Health, 1883 Environment and Planning ,2006 Herald of Health ,1870 The Ethics of Diet Howard Williams,1883 The Growth of Humanity Barry Bogin,2001-03-27 The Growth of Humanity is appropriate as an introduction for graduate students and advanced undergraduates studying human growth development and demography and is also appropriate for demographers anthropologists and human biologists BOOK JACKET Food Journal ,1874 General Catalogue of the Public Library of Detroit, Mich Detroit Public Library,1899
