Policies Affecting Fertility And Contraceptive Use An Assessment Of Twelve Sub Saharan Countries:

Policies Affecting Fertility and Contraceptive Use Susan Scribner, 1995 World Bank Technical Paper No 272 Public examinations in developing countries play a critical role in the selection of students for participation in the educational system. The exams dictate what is taught, how it is taught, and what is and is not learned. They are academic, have little reference to the everyday lives of the students, are limited to pencil and paper tests, and are biased toward high achievers. Thus, students who leave school at an early stage are provided with inadequate opportunities for acquiring relevant knowledge and skills. This study identifies practices associated with examinations that may create inequities for some students. These include scoring procedures, the use of culturally inappropriate questions, fee requirements, private tutoring, exams in a language unfamiliar to the student, and a variety of malpractices. Quota systems that deal with differences in performance associated with location, ethnicity, or language group membership also create inequities for some students. The report concludes that the limited available evidence does not indicate that examinations create inequities between genders and that ranking schools on the basis of students' examination performance may not provide a fair assessment of the work of schools.

Practical Lessons for Africa from East Asia in Industrial and Trade Policies Peter Harrold, Malathi Jayawickrama, Deepak Bhattasali, 1996 Living Standards Measurement Survey Working Paper No 121 Explores the link between poverty and lack of infrastructure using the 1992-93 Viet Nam Living Standards Survey. The household data indicate that, in general, access to infrastructure is almost equally bad for the poor and the non-poor, although there are some regional and urban-rural differences. The paper gives particular attention to the potential benefits from an expansion of irrigation infrastructure.

Hard Lessons, 1998-01-01 Education is a basic condition for economic and social development. Working in conjunction with the National Primary Education Commission, the World Bank supported consultations among teachers, parents, educational administrators, and community leaders to develop a strong foundation for primary education in Nigeria. The innovative work documented in this publication illustrates the potential not only for partnership between the users and providers of primary education but also between the World Bank and its clients.

Procurement and Disbursement Manual for Projects with Community Participation Gita Gopal, 1995 Draws on the experience of Bulgaria to study the problems encountered in financing government operations in the transition economies. This report describes Bulgaria's experience in addressing external shocks to its economy and large declines in the ratio of tax revenues to GDP. The book provides broad coverage of the problems many other governments face in transforming their systems of taxation in the transition to a market economy. Chapters discuss taxation and incentives, government and households, indirect taxation, and financing of social expenditures. Attention is also drawn to the implementation of a value added tax and to policies on fuel taxes. The report facilitates an understanding of the differences between actual and optimal policies as governments seek to establish a framework for resolving their budgetary problems in the transition.

The Impact of the Uruguay Round on Africa Peter

Harrold, 1995-01-01 Annotation World Bank Discussion Paper No 311 Examines the effects of the Uruguay Round on the countries of Sub Saharan Africa The findings show that the effects will be minimal overall and may be beneficial to countries which make the necessary domestic reforms for participation in the world market Africa Can Compete!, 1996 All 15 new independent states established in the economic space of the former Soviet Union suffered big declines in output and trade after gaining independence This study summarizes cross country experience on the role of trade and payments policies in the linked contraction of output and trade by drawing on eight country case studies Estonia the Kyrgyz Republic Latvia Lithuania Moldova Russia Ukraine and Uzbekistan The results of the case studies show that trade reform and reorientation of trade toward the rest of the world have done much to arrest the decline in output usually associated with the transformation from plan to market Also available in English Stock no 13615 ISBN 0 8213 3615 0 Civil Service Reform in Francophone Africa 'Ladipo Adamolekun, Guy de Lusignan, Armand Atomate, 1997-01-01 The world's financial markets are rapidly integrating into a single global marketplace and developing countries are being drawn into this process starting from different points and moving at various speeds Those with adequate institutions and sound policies in place may proceed smoothly along the road toward financial integration and gain the many benefits that integration can bring Most of the developing economies lack many of the necessary prerequisites for such a move a few are so unprepared that integration may do them more harm than good Developing countries may have little choice about whether to follow this path advances in communications and new developments in finance have made the course inevitable but they may still choose the ways in which they proceed choosing the policies that benefit the economy and averting potential shocks This World Bank report looks at the important challenges both sets of countries face in a new age of global capital The book presents new and compelling evidence that while low interest rates in industrial countries provided an initial impetus to the surge in private capital flows during 1989-93 these flows have entered a new phase driven by increased financial integration The report analyzes the causes and effects of integration with a particular emphasis on how developing countries in the nascent stages of integration can learn from the experiences of the more rapidly integrating developing countries Sector Investment Programs in Africa Stephen P. Jones, 1997-01-01 South Asia has made much progress in deregulation and liberalization in the 1990s but it still remains one of the least integrated regions in the world However this general trend masks wide disparities among South Asian nations the larger economies tend to be more highly protected with low import penetration rates while the smaller economies are relatively more open If the current reform program continues the benefits of liberalization will translate into higher growth This report reviews the regions economic performance from an international perspective and the steps taken to increase integration especially in terms of financial integration increased foreign direct investment portfolio and capital flows and regional integration intra regional trade regional arrangements Chapters also discuss the economic outlook for the region and prospects for South Asian exports such as textiles and clothing Case Studies in War-to-peace Transition Nat J.

Colletta, Markus Kostner, Ingo Wiederhofer, 1996 World Bank Discussion Paper No 331 With the assistance of Emilio Mondo Taimi Sitari and Tadesse A Woldu Provides a detailed analysis of the intricate nature of the political economic and sociocultural issues that arise during the transition from war to peace in Ethiopia Namibia and Uganda These countries offer a unique range of conditions and program models as well as a variety of successes and failures from which to learn A recently released overview The Transition from War to Peace in Sub Saharan Africa Stock no 13581 ISBN 0 8213 3581 2 is based on these country studies and a synthesis of reports of demobilization and reintegration programs in several other countries

Small Enterprises Adjusting to Liberalization in Five African Countries Ronald L. Parker, Randall Riopelle, William F. Steel, 1995-01-01 This study incorporates data from comparable surveys across five African countries Ghana Malawi Mali Senegal and Tanzania to analyze how small and micro enterprises have been positively and negatively affected by policy liberalization schemes Som State, Community, and Local Development in Nigeria Paul Francis, James Adewuyi Akinwumi, 1996-01-01 Environmentally Sustainable Development Proceedings Series No 10 Presents the proceedings of the World Bank s Third Annual Conference on Environmentally Sustainable Development held in October 1995 The conference included roundtable discussions a variety of speakers and associated conferences and events co sponsored by nongovernmental organizations and other institutions Cost Sharing in the Social Sectors of Sub-Saharan Africa Arvil V. Adams, Teresa Hartnett, 1996 World Bank Discussion Paper No 338 Reviews the World Bank s recommendation that governments charge user fees for social services for the nonpoor and looks at the impact of these policies on the poor The study inventories country experiences and Bank activities in cost sharing for education and health reviews African experiences with its implementation and assesses the lessons learned The authors discuss the practical problems confronted in implementing cost sharing and protecting the poor and present a series of interrelated actions for achieving the goals of basic education and health for all Afrika Spectrum, 1995 World Bank Research Program World Bank, 1994 The World Bank Research Program 1994, 1994 Institutional Adjustment and Adjusting to Institutions Robert E. Klitgaard, 1995 Schooling and Cognitive Achievements of Children in Morocco Shahidur R. Khandker, Victor Lavy, Deon Filmer, 1994 This paper uses data from the Morocco Living Standard Survey in an econometric investigation of the relative effectiveness of supply and demand side factors in determining educational outcomes A wide range of factors are examined that may be responsible for differences in grade completion levels and achievement among sexes regions and urban and rural areas These include household composition and income parent and teacher education levels and the presence or absence of schools paved roads electricity irrigation and convenient water sources The authors conclude that 1 educational resources are inefficiently allocated in rural Morocco with over 85 percent of resources devoted to teacher salaries as opposed to student resources 2 there is a need for more public investment in rural infrastructure in order to improve overall educational attainment and 3 given data showing higher social returns to female education it may be justifiable for the government to introduce a stipend to encourage parents to send girls to school The government of Morocco may accelerate educational achievements by furthering investments especially in rural areas in complementary inputs such as roads irrigation and electrification that raise the rate of return to education An appendix contains 19 data tables and 16 graphic figures Contains 14 Contains 14 references RAH Rural Development Abstracts ,1995 Financing Health Services Through User Fees and Insurance R. Paul Shaw,Martha Ainsworth,1995 World Bank Discussion Paper No 294 Presents case studies that focus on user fees and self financing health insurance as a means of contributing to efficiency equity and sustainable financing in the health sector User fees are emphasized as a form of cost sharing because private out of pocket expenditures for health account for nearly one half of total expenditures in Africa Evidence presented in this report suggests that self financing insurance is more prevalent in many countries than had been previously thought National Conference on Population Policy Considerations for Namibia ,1995
