Political Ecology In A Yucatec Maya Community:

Political Ecology in a Yucatec Maya Community Eugene Newton Anderson, 2005-10 For instance traditional subsistence agriculture is broadly sustainable at current population densities but hunting is not and modern mechanized agriculture has an uncertain future Bringing the voice of contemporary Maya to every page the authors offer an encyclopedic overview of the region history environment agriculture medicine social relations and economy Whether discussing the fine points of beekeeping or addressing the problem of deforestation they provide a remarkably detailed account that immerses readers in the landscape On Being Maya and Getting By Sarah R. Taylor, 2018-11-19 On Being Maya and Getting By is an ethnographic study of the two Ek Balams a notable archaeological site and adjacent village of the Yucatán Peninsula When the archaeological site became a tourist destination the village became the location of a community based tourism development project funded by the Mexican government Overt displays of heritage and a connection to Maya antiquity became important and profitable for the modern Maya villagers Residents of Ek Balam are now living in a complex ecosystem of natural and cultural resources where the notion and act of being Maya is deeply intertwined with economic development The book explores how Ek Balam villagers negotiate and maneuver through a web of social programs tourists volunteers and expectations while living their daily lives Focusing on the active processes in which residents choose to participate author Sarah R Taylor provides insights into how the ideological conflicts surrounding economic development play out in the negotiations between internal community politics and external social actors The conflicts implicit to conceptions of community as a target for development are made explicit through the systematic questioning of what exactly it means to be a member of a local indigenous or sustainable community in the process of being developed On Being Maya and Getting By is a rich description of how one community is actively negotiating with tourism and development and also a call for a more complex analysis of how rural villages are connected to greater urban national and global forces Drought Challenges Everisto Mapedza, Daniel Tsegai, Michael Bruntrup, Robert McLeman, 2019-09-25 Drought Challenges Livelihood Implications in Developing Countries Volume Two provides an understanding of the occurrence and impacts of droughts for developing countries and vulnerable sub groups such as women and pastoralists It presents tools for assessing vulnerabilities introduces individual policies to combat the effects of droughts and highlights the importance of integrated multi sectoral approaches and drought networks at various levels Currently there are few books on the market that address the growing need for knowledge on these cross cutting issues As drought can occur anywhere the systemic connections between droughts and livelihoods are a key factor in development in many dryland and agriculturally dependent nations Connects the biophysical social economic policy and institutional aspects of droughts across multiple regions in developing world Analyzes policy linkages between government agencies public institutions NGOs the private sector and communities Includes a discussion of gender dimensions of drought and its impacts Presents a multi sectoral perspective including the human dimensions of drought in developing countries Plants and Health Elizabeth Anne Olson, John Richard Stepp, 2016-12-29 This volume showcases current ethnobiological accounts of the ways that people use plants to promote human health and well being The goal in this volume is to highlight some contemporary examples of how plants are central to various aspects of healthy environments and healthy minds and bodies Authors employ diverse analytic frameworks including interpretive and constructivist cognitive political ecological systems theory phenomenological and critical studies of the relationship between humans plants and the environment The case studies represent a wide geographical range and explore the diversity in the health appeals of plants and herbs The volume begins by considering how plants may intrinsically be healthful and the notion that ecosystem health may be a literal concept used in contemporary efforts to increase awareness of environmental degradation The book continues with the exploration of the ways in which medically pluralistic societies demonstrate the entanglements between the environment the state and its citizens Profit driven models for the extraction and production of medicinal plant products are explored in terms of health equity and sovereignty Some of the chapters in this volume work to explore medicinal plant knowledge and the globalization of medicinal plant knowledge The translocal and global networks of medicinal plant knowledge are pivotal to productions of medicinal and herbal plant remedies that are used by people in all variety of societies and cultural groups Humans produce health through various means and interact with our environments especially plants in order to promote health The ethnographic accounts of people plants and health in this volume will be of interest to the fields of anthropology biology and ethnobiology as well as allied disciplines Caring for Place E N Anderson, 2016-07 Marshalling decades of research on cultures across several continents E N Anderson a leading writer and scholar in human ecology and anthropology shows how practicing environmental sustainability depends primarily on social and emotional engagements Culture, Environment and Health in the Yucatan Peninsula Hugo Azcorra, Federico Dickinson, 2019-12-11 This book adopts a human ecology approach to present an overview of the biological responses to social political economic cultural and environmental changes that affected human populations in the Yucatan Peninsula Mexico since the Classic Maya Period Human bodies express social relations and we can read these relations by analyzing biological tissues or systems and by measuring certain phenotypical traits at the population level Departing from this theoretical premise the contributors to this volume analyze the interactions between ecosystems sociocultural systems and human biology in a specific geographic region to show how changes in sociocultural and natural environment affect the health of a population over time This edited volume brings together contributions from a range of different scientific disciplines such as biological anthropology bioarchaeology human biology nutrition epidemiology ecotoxicology political economy sociology and ecology that analyze the interactions between culture environment and health in different domains of human life such as The political ecology of food nutrition and health Impacts of social and economic changes in children s diet and women s fertility Biological consequences of social vulnerability in urban areas Impacts of toxic contamination of natural resources on human health Ecological and sociocultural determinants of infectious diseases Culture Environment and Health in the Yucatan Peninsula A Human Ecology Perspective will be of interest to researchers from the social health and life sciences dedicated to the study of the interactions between natural environments human biology health and social issues especially in fields such as biological and sociocultural anthropology health promotion and environmental health It will also be a useful tool to health professionals and public agents responsible for designing and applying public health policies in contexts of social vulnerability Journal of Anthropological Research ,1973 Latin American Research Review ,2005 An interdisciplinary journal that publishes original research and surveys of current research on Latin America and the Caribbean The Modern Maya Macduff Everton,Charles Demangeat,Hilario Hiler,2012-03 This magnificent ethnographic photo essay presents the modern Maya of Yucatán who resilient resourceful creative and armed with intimate knowledge of the place where they live have survived centuries of upheaval Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur ,2008 Indigenous Peoples' Food Systems & Well-being Harriet V.
