Heterodox Economics Frederic Lee, 2009-06-02 Economics is a contested academic discipline between neoclassical economics and a collection of alternative approaches such as Marxism radical economics Institutional economics Post Keynesian economics and others that can collectively be called heterodox economics Because of the dominance of neoclassical economics the existence of the alternative approaches is generally not known This book is concerned with the community history of heterodox economics seen primarily through the eyes of Marxian radical economics and Post Keynesian economics Throughout the 20th century neoclassical economists in conjunction with state and university power have attacked heterodox economists and tried to cleanse them from the academy Professor Lee his groundbreaking new title discusses issues including the contested landscape of American economics in the 1970s the emergence and establishment of Post Keynesian economics in the US and the development of heterodox economics in Britain from 1970 to 1996 Marxist Study Courses, 1932 Marxist Study Courses, 1932 A History of Marxian Economics, Volume II Michael Charles Howard, John Edward King, 2014-07-14 This second volume completes a critical history of the social political and theoretical forces behind Marxian economics the only work in English to offer such comprehensive treatment Beginning with Marxian analyses of the Great Depression and Stalinism it explores the theories developed to explain the long boom in Western capitalism after the Second World War Later chapters deal with post Leninist theories of imperialism and continuing controversies in value theory and the theory of exploitation After outlining recent work on the second slump the integration of rational choice theory into Marxism and the political economy of socialism the book concludes with a review and evaluation of Marxian theory over the whole period since Marx's death Praise for the first volume Howard and King have done an excellent job One comes away with the impression of Marxian economics being a vibrant subject relevant to the problems of these times and useful in practical matters Meghnad Desai The Times Higher Education Supplement Originally published in 1992 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Marxist Study Courses International Publishers, 1932*

Marxist Study Courses, 1932 Political Economy Karl Marx, Political Economy, 1939 The Political Economy of Hollywood James McMahon, 2022-02-25 In Hollywood the goals of art and business are entangled Directors writers actors and idealistic producers aspire to make the best films possible. These aspirations often interact with the dominant firms that control Hollywood film distribution. This control of distribution is crucial as it enables the firms and other large businesses involved such as banks that offer financing to effectively stand between film production and the market. This book analyses the power structure of the Hollywood film business and its general modes of behaviour. More specifically, the work analyses how the largest Hollywood firms attempt to control social creativity such that they can mitigate the financial risks inherent in the art of filmmaking. Controlling the ways people make or watch films, the book argues, is a key element of Hollywood's capitalist power. Capitalist power, the ability to control, modify and sometimes limit social creation through the rights of ownership, is the foundation of capital accumulation. For the Hollywood film business, capitalist power is about the ability of business concerns to set the terms that will shape the future of cinema. For the major film distributors of Hollywood, these terms include the types of films that will be distributed, the number of films that will be distributed and the cinematic alternatives that will be made available to the individual moviegoer. Combining theoretical analysis with detailed empirical research on the financial performance of the major Hollywood film companies, the book details how Hollywood's capitalist goals have clashed with the aesthetic potentials of cinema and ultimately stymied creativity in the pursuit of limiting risk. This sharp critique of the Hollywood machine provides vital reading for students and scholars of political economy, political theory, film studies and cinema.

Studies in Political Economy, 1999 Marxist Study Courses, 1933 Marxist Study Courses Martin Lawrence Publishers, 1933 Labour Markets, Identities, Controversies Tom Brass, 2017-01-05

Debates about labour markets and the identity of those who in an economic sense circulate within them together with the controversies such issues generate have in the past been confined by development studies to the Third World. Now these same concerns have shifted as the study of development has turned its attention to how these same phenomena affect metropolitan capitalist nations. For this reason, the book does not restrict the analysis of issues such as the free/unfree labour distinction and non-class identity to Third World contexts. The reviews, review essays and essays collected here also examine similar issues now evident in metropolitan capitalism together with their political and ideological effects and implications.
