The New Rules of War Sean McFate, 2019-01-22 Stunning Sean McFate is a new Sun Tzu Admiral James Stavridis retired former Supreme Allied Commander at NATO An Economist Book of the Year 2019 Some of the principles of warfare are ancient others are new but all described in The New Rules of War will permanently shape war now and in the future By following them Sean McFate argues we can prevail But if we do not terrorists rogue states and others who do not fight conventionally will succeed and rule the world The New Rules of War is an urgent fascinating exploration of war past present and future and what we must do if we want to win today from an 82nd Airborne veteran former private military contractor and professor of war studies at the National Defense University War is timeless Some things change weapons tactics technology leadership objectives but our desire to go into battle does not We are living in the age of Durable Disorder a period of unrest created by numerous factors China's rise Russia's resurgence America's retreat global terrorism international criminal empires climate change dwindling natural resources and bloody civil wars Sean McFate has been on the front lines of deep state conflicts and has studied and taught the history and practice of war He's seen firsthand the horrors of battle and understands the depth and complexity of the current global military situation This devastating turmoil has given rise to difficult questions What is the future of war How can we survive If Americans are drawn into major armed conflict can we win McFate calls upon the legends of military study Carl von Clausewitz Sun Tzu and others as well as his own experience and carefully constructs the new rules for the future of military engagement the ways we can fight and win in an age of entropy one where corporations mercenaries and rogue states have more power and nation states have less With examples from the Roman conquest World War II Vietnam Afghanistan and others he tackles the differences between conventional and future war the danger in believing that technology will save us the genuine leverage of psychological and shadow warfare and much more McFate's new rules distill the essence of war today describing what it is in the real world not what we believe or wish it to be World Politics in an Age of Revolution John W. Spanier, 1967 In this groundbreaking new paperbound text in international relation John W Spanier focuses on three postwar forces to account for profoundly transformed nature of world politics since 1945 the revolution in military technology the permanent revolution of Communism and the nationalizing and modernizing revolution of rising expectations in the developing countries His empirical analysis of these revolutions their definition their interaction and their impact on the international political system as a whole goes far beyond traditional theoretical analyses to provide the concrete approach to international relations that has long been needed by the college student Arguing cogently that to consider the state system as the fundamental determinant of national behavior is to underestimate the influence of the states themselves upon that system Professor Spanier contends that an undistorted interpretation of contemporary international relations must give at least equal weight to the internal factors in the determination of a nation's foreign policy Indeed foreign policy in a revolutionary state system is seen here as basically the continuation of domestic politics by other means Within the context of this two level analysis author identifies and examines the key issues of our time Among the questions dealt with his brilliant synthesis of postwar international relations are the possible consequences of the Communist strategy to international civil war the effectiveness of various methods of arms control to their effects of the resurgence of a New Europe and China each eager to share bloc leadership and policy making authority on the respective alliance systems of the West and the East Publisher Academic American Encyclopedia ,1996 Time & Tide Helen A. Archdale,Margaret Haig Thomas Mackworth (Viscountess Rhondda),1961 Civilization: Journey to the modern world ,1973
