Risk Makers, Risk Takers, Risk Breakers JoBeth Allen, Jana M. Mason, 1989 Reading, Language, and Literacy Fran Lehr, Jean Osborn, 2012-10-12 The impetus for this book emerged from a conference that brought together publishers and reading researchers and educators for the purpose of examining the best available research evidence about what we know and what we have yet to learn about the teaching of reading and about how children learn to read The goal of the conference was to contribute to a sound research base upon which to develop classroom practices that will ensure that every American child will become fully literate Because the field is still so deeply divided over the best ways to translate belief into classroom practice the editors decided to highlight rather than gloss over these divisions It is hoped that the papers in this volume will promote thought and discussion that will lead to action in improving reading instruction for children now and into the new century Reading Across the Life Span Steven R. Yussen, M Cecil Smith, 2012-12-06 One of the liveliest areas of research in the social sciences is reading Scholarly activity is currently proceeding along a number of different disciplinary lines addressing a multitude of questions and issues about reading A short list of disciplines involved in the study of reading would include linguistics psychology education history and gerontology Among the important questions being addressed are some long standing concerns How are reading skills acquired What are the basic components of reading skill How do skilled readers differ from less skilled ones What are the best ways to approach instruction for different groups of readers young beginning readers poor readers with learning problems and teenage and adult illiterates How can reading skill best be measured what standardized instruments and observational techniques are most useful The large volume of textbooks and scholarly books that issue forth each year is clear evidence of the dynamic nature of the field The purpose of this volume is to survey some of the best work going on in the field today and reflect what we know about reading as it unfolds across the life span Reading is clearly an activity that spans each of our lives Yet most accounts of it focus on some narrow period of development and fail to consider the range of questions that serious scholarship needs to address for us to have a richer understanding of reading The book is divided into four parts Beginning Reading and Writing Dorothy S.
