Shades Of Darkness 57:

Dark Nights of the Soul Thomas Moore, 2005-06-16 Every human life is made up of the light and the dark the happy and the sad the vital and the deadening How you think about this rhythm of moods makes all the difference Our lives are filled with emotional tunnels the loss of a loved one or end of a relationship aging and illness career disappointments or just an ongoing sense of dissatisfaction with life Society tends to view these dark nights in clinical terms as obstacles to be overcome as quickly as possible But Moore shows how honoring these periods of fragility as periods of incubation and positive opportunities to delve the soul's deepest needs can provide healing and a new understanding of life's meaning Dark Nights of the Soul presents these metaphoric dark nights not as the enemy but as times of transition occasions to restore yourself and transforming rites of passage revealing an uplifting and inspiring new outlook on such topics as The healing power of melancholy The sexual dark night and the mysteries of matrimony Finding solace during illness and in aging Anxiety anger and temporary Insanities Linking creativity spirituality and emotional struggles Finding meaning and beauty in the darkness

Aboriginal Affairs Max Griffiths, 1995 Provides an overview of Aboriginal history prior to European settlement and discusses and analyses issues in Aboriginal affairs from 1788 to 1995 Gives an account of the relationship between the Aboriginal people and the European institutions of state church industry and law and discusses the effects of policies of protection assimilation and self determination as well as laws relating to land ownership and the Mabo case Includes references a bibliography and an index The author is a former superintendent of the Australian Inland Mission and in 1979 was awarded an MBE for services to the outback His other publications include The Hungry Heart The Formation of Hell

Alan E. Bernstein, 2020-06-30 What becomes of the wicked Hell exile from God subjection to fire worms and darkness for centuries the idea has shaped the dread of malefactors the solace of victims and the deterrence of believers Although we may associate the notion of hell with Christian beliefs its gradual emergence depended on conflicting notions that pervaded the Mediterranean world more than a millennium before the birth of Christ Asking just why and how belief in hell arose Alan E Bernstein takes us back to those times and offers us a comparative view of the philosophy poetry folklore myth and theology of that formative age Bernstein draws on sources from ancient Egypt Mesopotamia Greece Rome and Israel as well as early Christian writings through Augustine in order to reconstruct the story of the prophets priests poets and charismatic leaders who fashioned concepts of hell from an array of perspectives on death and justice The author traces hell's formation through close readings of works including the epics of Homer and Vergil the satires of Lucian the dialogues of Plato and Plutarch the legends of Enoch the confessions of the Psalms the prophecies of Isaiah Ezekiel and Daniel and the parables of Jesus Reenacting lively debates about the nature of hell among the common people and the elites of diverse religious traditions he provides new insight into the social implications and the psychological consequences of different visions of the afterlife This superb account of a central image in Western culture will captivate readers interested in history mythology literature
