Practical Mind-Reading (a Timeless Classic) William Atkinson,2016-10-25 Nearly everyone has had evidences of Mind Reading or Thought Transference in his or her own life Nearly everyone has had experiences of being in a person s company when one of the two would make a remark and the other somewhat startled would exclaim Why that s just what I was going to say or words to that effect Nearly everyone has had experiences of knowing what a second person was going to say before the person spoke And likewise common is the experience of thinking of a person a few moments before the person came into sight Many of us have suddenly found ourselves thinking of a person who had been out of our minds for months or years when all of a sudden the person himself would appear These instances are so common as to be generally recognized without question These occurrences have given rise to the two common sayings viz Speak of the devil and his imps appear or Speak of angels and you hear the rustle of their wings

Practical Mind-Reading William Walker Atkinson,2015-01-04 Practical Mind Reading by William Walker Atkinson Yogi Ramacharak One of the interesting series of experiments conducted by members of the English Society was that of the family of the Rev A M Creery of Derbyshire England This investigation was made upon hearing the report of the Rev Mr Creery regarding a number of experiments he had conducted with his four children He reported that he had begun by practicing a variation of what is generally known as the willing game in which one of the party leaves the room and the company selects some object to be hidden after which the person is recalled to the room when the company concentrates its mind upon the hidden object and the seeker eventually finds it by means of Mind Reading The reverend gentleman said in his report to the Society We began by selecting the simplest objects in the room then chose names of towns people dates cards out of a pack lines from different poems etc any thing or series of ideas that those present could keep before the mind steadily The children seldom made a mistake I have seen seventeen cards chosen by myself named right in succession without any mistake We soon found that a great deal depended upon the steadiness with which the ideas were kept before the minds of the thinkers and upon the energy with which they willed the ideas to pass I may say that this faculty is not confined to the members of one family it is much more general than we imagine To verify this conclusion I invited two of a neighbor s children to join us in our experiment and very excellent results we secured from them The Society then began a series of careful investigations extending over a period of one year The utmost care was taken to obviate the chance of fraud collusion mistakes or outside influences The experiments were conducted partly in Mr Creery s house and partly in rooms selected by the members of the investigating committee Having selected at random one of the children the child would be taken from the room and accompanied by a member of the committee would wait out of sight or hearing of the room The remainder of the committee would then select a card from a pack or else write down a name or number which occurred to them at the moment The following verbatim report of what followed will give you an idea of the results generally obtained The report goes on to say On re entering the room the little girl would usually stand with her face to the wall placed thus by us But sometimes she would stand with her eyes directed toward the ground for a period of silence varying from a few seconds to a minute till she called out to us some number card or what it might be The report states that in the case of giving the names of objects chosen the child scored six cases out of fourteen In the case of naming of small objects held in the hands of members of the committee she scored five out of six In the case of naming cards she scored six out of thirteen In the case of stating fictitious names chosen by the committee she scored at a first trial five out of ten Front Cover Attribution
