Classical and Evolutionary Algorithms in the Optimization of Optical Systems Darko

Vasiljevic, 2012-12-06 The optimization of optical systems is a very old problem As soon as lens designers discovered the possibility of designing optical systems the desire to improve those systems by the means of optimization began For a long time the optimization of optical systems was connected with well known mathematical theories of optimization which gave good results but required lens designers to have a strong knowledge about optimized optical systems In recent years modern optimization methods have been developed that are not primarily based on the known mathematical theories of optimization but rather on analogies with nature While searching for successful optimization methods scientists noticed that the method of organic evolution well known Darwinian theory of evolution represented an optimal strategy of adaptation of living organisms to their changing environment If the method of organic evolution was very successful in nature the principles of the biological evolution could be applied to the problem of optimization of complex technical systems      Gas Turbines
