Prehispanic Domestic Units In Western Mesoamerica Studies Of The Household Compound And Residence:

Prehispanic Domestic Units in Western Mesoamerica Robert S. Santley, Kenneth G. Hirth, 1992-11-23 Prehispanic Domestic Units in Western Mesoamerica presents different analytical approaches for interpreting household composition and cultural site formation processes in prehispanic western Mesoamerica Archaeological data collected using both stratigraphic and reconnaissance methods are combined with and interpreted using a combination of ethnohistoric ethnographic and ethnoarchaeological information The result is a richer and more complete picture of prehispanic household structure than any single analytic approach could produce on its own The book is organized into several sections based on common theme and geographic area The first three chapters provide a broad discussion of conceptual and methodological difficulties that archaeologists must resolve in the study of prehispanic households Subsequent chapters present case studies which examine households from two areas of western Mesoamerica the Central Mexican highlands and the Gulf Coast of Mexico Eight case studies from the Central Mexican highlands provide a longitudinal perspective on changing household composition Four of these examine households during the late Formative Classic Epiclassic and Early Postclassic periods 650 B C A D 1200 while four others focus specifically on household structure during the century immediately preceding the Spanish Conquest Two additional case studies provide comparative information on household organization in the South Gulf Coast region during the Classic period Prehispanic Domestic Units in Western Mesoamerica Studies of the Household Compound and Residence will be an excellent reference for all anthropologists and archaeologists interested in prehispanic western Mesoamerica

Domestic Life in Prehispanic Capitals Linda R. Manzanilla, Claude Chapdelaine, 2009-01-01 With major differences in size urban plans and population density the capitals of New World states had large heterogeneous societies sometimes multiethnic and highly specialized making these cities amazing backdrops for complex interactions The Archaeology of Household Activities Penelope Allison, 2013-05-13 This pioneering collection engages with recent research in different areas of the archaeological discipline to bring together case studies of the household material culture from later prehistoric and classical periods The book provides a comprehensive and accessible study for students into the material records of past households aiding wider understanding of our own domestic development Ancient Households of the Americas John G. Douglass, Nancy Gonlin, 2012-04-15 In Ancient Households of the Americas archaeologists investigate the fundamental role of household production in ancient colonial and contemporary households Several different cultures Iroquois Coosa Anasazi Hohokam San Agust n Wankarani Formative Gulf Coast Mexico and Formative Classic Colonial and contemporary Maya are analyzed through the lens of household archaeology in concrete data driven case studies The text is divided into three sections Section I examines the spatial and social organization and context of household production Section II looks at the role and results of households as primary producers and Section III investigates the role of and interplay among households in their greater political and socioeconomic communities In the past few decades household archaeology has made substantial contributions to our understanding and explanation of the past through the documentation of the household as a social unit whether small or large rural or urban commoner or elite These case studies from a broad swath of the Americas make Ancient Households of the Americas extremely valuable for continuing the comparative interdisciplinary study of households

Olmec to Aztec Barbara L. Stark, Philip J. Arnold, 2022-09-06 Archaeological settlement patterns the ways in which ancient people distributed themselves across a natural and cultural landscape provide the central theme for this long overdue update to our understanding of the Mexican Gulf lowlands Olmec to Aztec offers the only recent treatment of the region that considers its entire prehistory from the second millennium B C to A D 1519 The editors have assembled a distinguished group of international scholars several of whom here provide the first widely available English language account of ongoing research Several studies present up to date syntheses of the archaeological record in their respective areas Other chapters provide exciting new data and innovative insights into future directions in Gulf lowland archaeology Olmec to Aztec is a crucial resource for archaeologists working in Mexico and other areas of Latin America Its contributions help dispel long standing misunderstandings about the prehistory of this region and also correct the sometimes overzealous manner in which cultural change within the Gulf lowlands has been attributed to external forces This important book clearly demonstrates that the Gulf lowlands played a critical role in ancient Mesoamerica throughout the entirety of pre Columbian history

Paso de la Amada Richard G Lesure, 2021-08-29 Paso de la Amada an archaeological site in the Soconusco region of the Pacific coast of Mexico was among the earliest sedentary ceramic using villages of Mesoamerica With an occupation that extended across 140 ha in 1600 BC it was also one of the largest communities of its era First settled around 1900 BC the site was abandoned 600 years later during what appears to have been a period of local political turmoil The decline of Paso de la Amada corresponded with a rupture in local traditions of material culture and local adoption of the Early Olmec style Stylistically the material culture of Paso de la Amada corresponds predominantly to the pre Olmec Mokaya tradition Excavations at the site have revealed significant earthen constructions from as early as 1700 BC Those include the earliest known Mesoamerican ball court and traces of a series of high status residences This monograph reports on large scale excavations in Mounds 1 12 and 32 as well as soundings in other locations The volume covers all aspects of excavations and artifacts and includes three lengthy interpretive chapters dealing with the main research questions which concern subsistence social inequality and the organizational history of the site
