Prehistory Of The Ayacucho Basin Peru Vol Ii Excavations And Chronology:

The Origins and Development of the Andean State Jonathan Haas, Shelia Pozorski, Thomas Pozorski, 1987-08-06 This volume brings together research on the evolution of civilisation in the Andean region of South America from the work of sixteen leading scholars at one time actively engaged in fieldwork in Peru Beginning with early chiefdom societies living along the Peruvian coast 2000 years before Christ the authors trace the growing complexity of Andean states and empires over the next 3000 years They examine the accomplishments of the ancient Andeans in the rise of magnificent monumental architecture and the construction of unparalleled prehistoric irrigation systems They also look at the dominant role of warfare in Andean societies and at the collapse of empires in the millennia before the arrival of the Spanish in 1534 Together the contributors provide the first systematic study of the evolution of polities along the dry coastal plains and high mountain valleys of the Peruvian Andes

The South American Camelids Duccio Bonavia, 2009-02-01 One of the most significant differences between the New World's major areas of high culture is that Mesoamerica had no beasts of burden and wool while the Andes had both Four members of the camelid family wild guanacos and vicunas and domestic llamas and alpacas were native to the Andes South American peoples relied on these animals for meat and wool and as beasts of burden to transport goods all over the Andes In this book Duccio Bonavia tackles major questions about these camelids from their domestication to their distribution at the time of the Spanish conquest One of Bonavia's hypotheses is that the arrival of the Europeans and their introduced Old World animals forced the Andean camelids away from the Pacific coast creating the mistaken impression that camelids were exclusively high altitude animals Bonavia also addresses the diseases of camelids and their population density suggesting that the original camelid populations suffered from a different type of mange than that introduced by the Europeans This new mange he believes was one of the causes behind the great morbidity of camelids in Colonial times In terms of domestication while Bonavia believes that the major centers must have been the puna zone intermediate zones he adds that the process should not be seen as restricted to a single environmental zone Bonavia's landmark study of the South American camelids is now available for the first time in English This new edition features an updated analysis and comprehensive bibliography In the Spanish edition of this book Bonavia lamented the fact that the zooarchaeological data from R S MacNeish's Ayacucho Project had yet to be published In response the Ayacucho's Project's faunal analysts Elizabeth S Wing and Kent V Flannery have added appendices on the Ayacucho results to this English edition This book will be of broad interest to archaeologists zoologists social anthropologists ethnohistorians and a wide range of students

Andean Archaeology III William Isbell, Helaine Silverman, 2006-11-30 Andean Archaeology III represents a continuation in our effort to highlight the best of current archaeological scholarship conducted in the Central Andean culture area Each paper contributes in a significant way to understanding prehistoric processes in the Central Andean culture tradition adding importantly to the rich base provided by Andean Archaeology I and II As in those former volumes we do not seek a balanced presentation of the entirety of the Andean past but instead showcase what is new what is innovative and what is controversial in thinking about and investigating the great sweep of Andean cultural development We wholeheartedly agree with Pauketat 2001 xiii that it is more satisfying to compare how cultural phenomena happened than for researchers to hasten to answer why questions that tend more to reify their initial assumptions than to inform us about prehistoric people and their embodied cultural practices We support the revitalized study of sociocultural evolution especially that championed by Bruce Trigger e.g. 1998 2003 which has benefited by several decades of valuable critique On the other hand explanations of the past not based on comparisons of historical processes carefully argued from well studied archaeological records sacrifice the rigor that was such an important part of the first processual archaeology advocated by Lewis Binford 1962 1964 1972 Sabloff 1998 see also Yoffee 2005 in Archaeology in America In some recent and current Andean archaeology we find explanatory conclusions especially processual evolutionary transformations and climate change based rise or collapse accounts to have been reached too hastily constituting more of a reading of material remains in terms of theoretical expectations than a rigorous interrogation of the archaeological record

Maize Duccio Bonavia, 2013-05-13 This book examines one of the thorniest problems of ancient American archaeology the origins and domestication of maize Using a variety of scientific techniques Duccio Bonavia explores the development of maize its adaptation to varying climates and its fundamental role in ancient American cultures An appendix by Alexander Grobman provides the first ever comprehensive compilation of maize genetic data correlating this data with the archaeological evidence presented throughout the book This book provides a unique interpretation of questions of dating and evolution supported by extensive data following the spread of maize from South to North America and eventually to Europe and beyond

Where the Land Meets the Sea Tom D. Dillehay, 2017-08-01 Huaca Prieta one of the world's best known yet least understood early maritime mound sites and other Preceramic sites on the north coast of Peru bear witness to the beginnings of civilization in the Americas Across more than fourteen millennia of human occupation the coalescence of maritime agricultural and pastoral economies in the north coast settlements set in motion long term biological and cultural transformations that led to increased social complexity and food production and later the emergence of preindustrial states and urbanism These developments make Huaca Prieta a site of global importance in world archaeology This landmark volume presents the findings of a major archaeological investigation carried out at Huaca Prieta the nearby mound Paredones and several Preceramic domestic sites in the lower Chicama Valley between 2006 and 2013 by an interdisciplinary team of more than fifty international specialists The book s contributors report on and analyze the extensive material records from the sites including data on the architecture and spatial patterns floral faunal and lithic remains textiles basketry and more Using this rich data they build new models of the social economic and ontological practices of these early peoples who appear to have favored cooperation and living in harmony with the environment over the accumulation of power and the development of ruling elites This discovery adds a crucial new dimension to our understanding of emergent social complexity cosmology and religion in the Neolithic period

Hiltunen,1999 A groundbreaking volume and intriguing study which provokes debate in many quarters and reshapes our understanding of the Andean past Drawing on most current archaeological ethnographic and linguistic evidence as well as intensive use of revalorised documentary sources and cross cultural auxiliary data Hiltunen offers a completely new insight into Andean prehistory Ritual Sacrifice in Ancient Peru Elizabeth P. Benson,Anita G. Cook,2001-07-01 Propitiating the supernatural forces that could grant bountiful crops or wipe out whole villages through natural disasters was a sacred duty in ancient Peruvian societies as in many premodern cultures Ritual sacrifices were considered necessary for this propitiation and for maintaining a proper reciprocal relationship between humans and the supernatural world The essays in this book examine the archaeological evidence for ancient Peruvian sacrificial offerings of human beings animals and objects as well as the cultural contexts in which the offerings occurred from around 2500 B C until Inca times just before the Spanish Conquest Major contributions come from the recent archaeological fieldwork of Steve Bourget Anita Cook and Alana Cordy Collins as well as from John Verano s laboratory work on skeletal material from recent excavations Mary Frame who is a weaver as well as a scholar offers rich new interpretations of Paracas burial garments and Donald Proulx presents a fresh view of the nature of Nasca warfare Elizabeth Benson s essay provides a summary of sacrificial practices
