provides an extensive introduction that argues that Fox's experience as an administrator and senior political adviser with special responsibility for foreign affairs mainly with Scotland and France the political situation in 1516 and social concerns Fox shared with Thomas More all provide keys to understanding this translation of the rule Richard Fox was king's secretary Lord Privy Seal and Bishop of Winchester and founder of Corpus Christi College in Oxford He was an administrator who reflected much on the proper exercise of authority and responsibility at all levels especially through negotiated co operation He strongly supported monastic reforms and when a group of abbesses requested a translation for sisters unable to understand Latin this was his response It provides a unique window into the world of female spirituality just a few months before Luther's reformation began The exercise of God given authority by women is described in the same possibly stronger terms as for men Fox expressed no reservations about the exercise of authority by women His indifference to sexual distinctions arose paradoxically from his preoccupation with the skilful use of God given functioning of authority in a hierarchical society
