 resonate with musicians explores the value of music in exhibiting McEwan's views on the world and presents his perspective on religion's role within society The majority of characters in Ian McEwan's novels are educated members of the middle class scientist Solar musician On Chesil Beach Amsterdam or surgeon Saturday they are faced with moral ethical religious and personal dilemmas that bear resonance to a contemporary audience Classical music is present throughout McEwan's writings including his recent Lessons 2022 mostly not as an accompanying theme but as a necessary part of life's pleasures and for some essential needs The combination of music and the unforgettable narrative moments create a unique space for McEwan to translate his views on the world The value of music not least as a complementary presence to silence is portrayed not just as the source of comfort but as a known presence that is dependable to an individual on a near spiritual level Within his writings there is also a clear understanding of the role of the Church of England as a societal cultural and established presence within British society In the literary descriptions of McEwan and other authors this often extends beyond the immediate theological and ecclesiastical concerns of the day McEwan's writings demonstrate a perceptive knowledge of the nuances of this highly specific cultural dynamic McEwan's ability to discern sentiments that easily resonate with musicians place his contribution to the field of music and literature studies in a singular position among living writers discussing classical music in Britain This book provokes questions for those who encounter these areas for the first time in McEwan's writings and it offers a place of sustained enquiry for those who have experienced these fields first hand whether as listeners performers congregants audience members or scholars across literary musical or ecclesiastical fields Iain Quinn's book will be of interest to scholars and students of contemporary British literature as well as those interested in words and music
