Precariously Privileged:

Precarious Privilege Irene Browne, 2024-03-04 In recent years crackdowns on immigrant labor and a shrinking job market in California Arizona and Texas have pushed Latine immigrants to new destinations particularly places in the American South Although many of these immigrants work in manufacturing or food processing plants a growing number belong to the professional middle class These professionals find that despite their privileged social class and regardless of their national origin many non Latines assume that they are undocumented working class Mexicans the stereotype of the typical Latine In Precarious Privilege sociologist Irene Browne focuses on how first generation middle class Mexican and Dominican immigrants in Atlanta respond to this stigmatizing assumption Browne finds that when asked to identify themselves by race these immigrants either reject racial identities entirely or draw on belief systems from Mexico and the Dominican Republic that emphasize European indigenous mixed race identities When branded as typical Latines in the U S Mexican middle class immigrants emphasize their social class or explain that a typical Latine can be middle class while Dominicans simply indicate that they are not Mexican Rather than blame systemic racism both Mexican and Dominican middle class immigrants often attribute misperceptions of their identity to non Latines ignorance or to individual Latines lack of effort in trying to assimilate But these middle class Latine immigrants do not simply seek to position themselves on par with the U S born white middle class Instead they leverage their cosmopolitanism for example their multilingualism or their children s experiences traveling abroad to engage in what Browne calls one up assimilation a strategy that aims to position them above the white middle class who are often monolingual and unaware of the world outside the United States Middle class Latines cosmopolitanism and valuing of diversity also lead them to have cordial relations with African Americans but these immigrants do not see themselves as sharing African Americans status as oppressed minorities Although the stereotype of the typical Latine has made middle class Latine immigrants susceptible to stigma they insist that this stigma does not play a significant role in their lives In many cases they view the stereotype as a minor issue feel that opportunities for upward mobility outweigh any negative experiences or downplay racism by emphasizing their class privilege Browne observes that while downplaying racism may help middle class Latine immigrants maintain their dignity it also perpetuates inequality by reinforcing the lower status of working class undocumented immigrants It is thus imperative Browne argues to repeal harsh anti immigration policies a move that will not only ease the lives of the undocumented but also send a message about who belongs in the country Offering a nuanced exploration of how race social class and immigration status intersect Precarious Privilege provides a complex portrait of middle class Latine immigrants in the United States today Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain Laurence Brockliss, Harry Smith, 2024-06-25 Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain is the first statistically based social cultural and familial history of a fast growing and socially prominent section of the Victorian propertied classes It is built around a representative cohort of 750 men who were recorded in the 1851 census as practising a profession in eight British provincial towns with distinctive economic and social profiles Brighton Bristol Dundee Greenock Leeds Merthyr Tydfil Winchester and the twin county town of Northumberland Alnwick Morpeth The book provides a collective account of the cohort's lives and the lives of their families across four generations starting with their parents and ending with their grandchildren It touches on the history of 16 000 individuals The book aims to throw light on the extent to which nineteenth century professionals had a distinctive socio cultural profile as sociologists and some historians have claimed or were largely indistinguishable from other members of propertied society as most historians today assume without further investigation In exploring this question particular attention is paid to the cohort families wealth household size education occupational history geographical mobility and broader involvement in society measured by their members choice of marriage partner their kinship and friendship circles their political allegiance and their leisure activities The book demonstrates that male professionals in the Victorian era were far from being a homogenous group but were divided in many ways The most important was wealth which played a key role in the social and occupational fortunes of their descendants These divisions largely explain why some professionals and some individual professions were much more likely to display endogenous characteristics than others The book also demonstrates that even the most successful professional families got poorer over time and reveals how easily in the age of industrialisation branches of families and sometimes complete families could drop out of the elite

Teachers' Journeys into International School Teaching in China Adam Poole, 2023-10-12 Poole's book illuminates the experiences and perspectives of host country national teachers at internationalised schools in China The international school sector in China has undergone significant changes in recent years This is due to the growing demand for international education from local middle class families In response a new type of school has emerged Going by various names such as private bilingual or internationalised these schools offer a fusion of national and international curricula and are staffed predominantly by host country national teachers Despite these changes we still know little about who host country national teachers are and what draws them to the world of international schooling Accordingly this book explores the motivations and mobilities of host country national teachers in China It identifies three types of teacher Returners Reachers and Remainers Returners are graduates who have returned to China from overseas study They are drawn to international schools by the opportunity to use their international experience and qualification Reachers are internal migrants who face structural inequality and attracted to international schools by the opportunity for social mobility Remainers are married teachers with children They are motivated to work in international schools by the perceived stability and security these schools offer Discussing implications for teacher recruitment development and retention in international schools this book is an essential read for international educational researchers as well as students researching international education or teacher identity

individuality cosmopolitanism scientific rationalism the progressive role of the elite and the emancipation of women informed advice about the desirable appearance of the home In the period preceding the First World War these values changed dramatically advice on decoration became more nationalistic in tone and a new goal was set for the interior to raise the British child by the British hearth Neiswander traces this evolving discourse within the context of current writing on interior decoration writing that it is much more detached from social and political issues of the day BOOK JACKET City of Dreadful Delight Judith R. Walkowitz, 1992-10-15 From tabloid exposes of child prostitution to the grisly tales of Jack the Ripper narratives of sexual danger pulsed through Victorian London Expertly blending social history and cultural criticism Judith Walkowitz shows how these narratives reveal the complex dramas of power politics and sexuality that were being played out in late nineteenth century Britain and how they influenced the language of politics journalism and fiction Victorian London was a world where long standing traditions of class and gender were challenged by a range of public spectacles mass media scandals new commercial spaces and a proliferation of new sexual categories and identities In the midst of this changing culture women of many classes challenged the traditional privileges of elite males and asserted their presence in the public domain An important catalyst in this conflict argues Walkowitz was W T Stead s widely read 1885 article about child prostitution Capitalizing on the uproar caused by the piece and the volatile political climate of the time women spoke of sexual danger articulating their own grievances against men inserting themselves into the public discussion of sex to an unprecedented extent and gaining new entree to public spaces and journalistic practices The ultimate manifestation of class anxiety and gender antagonism came in 1888 with the tabloid tales of Jack the Ripper In between there were quotidian stories of sexual possibility and urban adventure and Walkowitz examines them all showing how women were not simply figures in the imaginary landscape of male spectators but also central actors in the stories of metropolitan life that reverberated in courtrooms learned journals drawing rooms street corners and in the letters columns of the daily press A model of cultural history this ambitious book will stimulate and enlighten readers across a broad range of interests
