Manual of Staff Development Lori Rodriguez, 1996 THE MANUAL OF STAFF DEVELOPMENT is a practical resource that provides staff development educators and administrators with a compendium of useful tools and techniques to meet the rapidly changing professional development needs of their staff. Drawn from hospitals throughout the U.S. and Canada, the materials address such crucial and diverse activities as staff development certification, finance, quality, marketing, instructional design, needs assessment, program planning, orientation, preceptorship, in-service education, competence assessment, and evaluation. This resource enables the staff development educator to benefit from the expertise and experience of numerous staff development experts, saving the time and money required creating these programs and materials. Nursing

Preceptorship Florence Myrick, Olive Yonge, 2005 This concise yet comprehensive reference provides nurses with a resource for their role in the preceptorship experience, whether they are the preceptors, preceptees, teachers of the educational programs, or administrators of the practice agencies. The book discusses the different dimensions of preceptorship as well as addresses directly the teaching/learning climate, goals, and objectives of preceptorship and the nature of the teaching/learning experience. Other areas covered are a look at the student as a learner and the all-important area of communication. A final bonus chapter offers useful suggestions on the setting up or instituting of a preceptorship program. Nursing Staff

Development Roberta Straessle Abruzzese, 1996 NURSING STAFF DEVELOPMENT is a concise practical text and reference that discusses the conceptual foundations of staff development, assesses the current status of the field, and provides information useful for designing, conducting, and managing staff development programs. This edition reflects new trends in health care reorganization and resulting changes needed in staff development. It also provides expanded coverage of the certification process. The Role of the Preceptor Jean Pieri Flynn, Madonna C. Stack, 2006 This book contains two new chapters on preceptorship in home care settings and distance learning programs. It exemplifies the second edition of this how to guide for nursing faculty and clinicians Flynn and Stack provide a useful and easy to follow framework for not only developing and implementing preceptor programs but also for learning how to precept students and facilitate the development of nursing expertise in both preceptors and preceptees This second edition includes information on precepting mentoring and teaching a model preceptor program which includes charts tables and a special section on internships residencies and mentoring in the nursing program Overall the concept of how preceptorship aids in nursing education is shown throughout this book Provided by the Publisher A Preceptorship Model for Nurses in Rural Health Care Facilities Marilyn Enid Pottinger, Brandon University. Rural Development Institute, 1994 This report describes a preceptorship model that provides student nurses with clinical practice in rural health facilities The development and implementation of a preceptorship model reflects a partnership between nursing education and nursing service between the urban nursing school and the rural hospital A five stage preceptorship model is presented that includes development of guidelines selection of participants orientation of participants implementation and evaluation The model draws on a literature review plus feedback from nurse preceptors and graduating nursing students The model emphasizes the importance of clearly stated purposes and objectives guidelines outlining the roles and responsibilities of the student the preceptor and the faculty liaison and careful selection and preparation of all participants In spring 1992 24 students completed their senior practicums in rural hospitals using the preceptorship model all were satisfied with the experience met their clinical objectives and completed their learning contracts Evaluations of the model by the faculty liaison person preceptors and students resulted in 18 recommendations to improve implementation of the model The strongest preceptor recommendation was that students and preceptors work identical hours with identical patient assignments Contains 53 references Appendices include preceptor questionnaire terminal nursing competencies agreement between nursing school and health care facility form for assessing potential preceptors and evaluation forms for students and preceptors Author SV Annual Review of Nursing Education Kathleen T. Wheeler, Hector R. Wong, Thomas P. Shanley, 2008-12-03 The eld of critical care medicine is in the midst of a dramatic change Technological and s enti c advances during the last decade have resulted in a fundamental change in the way we view disease processes such as sepsis shock acute lung injury and traumatic brain injury Pediatric intensivists have been both witness to and active participants in bringing about these changes As the understanding of the pathogenesis of these diseases reaches the cellular and molecular levels the gap between critical care medicine and molecular biology will disappear It is imperative that all physicians caring for critically ill children in this new era have a th ough understanding of the applicability of molecular biology to the care of these patients at the bedside in order to keep up with the rapidly evolving eld of critical care medicine To the same extent the practice of critical care medicine is in the midst of fundamental change. In keeping with the Institute of Medicine's report Crossing the Quality Chasm, the care of critically ill and injured children needs to be safe, evidence based, equitable, efficient, timely, and family centered. 1, 2
