Precisionism In America Reordering Reality:

Zur Ästhetisierung von Fortschritt und Technik im Präzisionismus Andreas Gehlert, 1996 Precisionism in America, 1915-1941 Montclair Art Museum, 1994 Exhibition catalog examines the Precisionism movement in America between 1915 and 1941 and includes the works of artists such as Georgia O'Keeffe, Ralston Crawford, Elsie Driggs, Paul Strand, Alfred Stieglitz, Louis Lozowick, Niles Spencer, Paul Outerbridge and Virginia Berresford Individualism Zubin Meer, 2011-05-26

Individualism: The Cultural Logic of Modernity explores ideas of the modern sovereign individual in the western cultural tradition. Divided into two sections, this volume surveys the history of western individualism in both its early and later forms, chiefly from the sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries and then individualism in the twentieth century. These essays boldly challenge not only the exclusionary framework and self-assured teleology but also the metaphysical certainty of that remarkably tenacious narrative on the rise of the individual. Some essays question the correlation of realist characterization to the eighteenth-century British novel, while others champion the continuing political relevance of selfhood in modernist fiction, over and against postmodern nihilism. Yet others move to the foreground underappreciated topics such as the role of courtly cultures in the development of individualism. Taken together, the essays provocatively revise and enrich our understanding of individualism as the generative premise of modernity itself. Authors especially considered include Locke, Defoe, Freud, and Adorno. The essays in this volume first began as papers presented at a conference of the American Comparative Literature Association held at Princeton University. Among the contributors are Nancy Armstrong, Deborah Cook, James Cruise, David Jenemann, Lucy McNeece, Vivasvan Soni, Frederick Turner, and Philip Weinstein Cartoon Vision Dan Bashara, 2019-04-02 In Cartoon Vision, Dan Bashara examines American animation alongside the modern design boom of the postwar era. Focusing especially on United Productions of America (UPA), a studio whose graphic abstract style defined the postwar period, Bashara considers animation akin to a laboratory exploring new models of vision and space alongside theorists and practitioners in other fields. The links theoretical, historical, and aesthetic between animators, architects, designers, artists, and filmmakers reveal a specific midcentury modernism that rigorously reimagined the senses. Cartoon Vision invokes the American Bauhaus legacy of László Moholy-Nagy and György Kepes and advocates for animation's pivotal role in a utopian design project of retraining the public's vision to better apprehend a rapidly changing modern world.

American painter and printmaker most noted for his depictions of the urban scene was in many ways a typical cultural figure of the early twentieth century Born in Ukraine in an era of revolutionary ferment involved in the artistic adventures of Paris Berlin and Moscow in the 1920s he was one of the earliest links between the international machine aesthetic and the nascent American Precisionist movement Set almost wholly in Russia and western Europe Lozowick s memoirs published here for the first time present not only a portrait of the artist as a young man but also a vibrant record of Jewish life in the waning days of the Russian empire Emigrating to New York himself at age fourteen Lozowick was aware of two artistic movements in the Russia he left behind one The Wanderers committed to art as a catalyst for progress the other The World of Art focused on aesthetics alone In his visits to Europe in the 1920s Lozowick acquainted himself with the experiments and aims of other emerging cultural movements Circulating among Dadaists writing along with Joyce Stein and Picasso for the expatriate magazine Broom and meeting with Russian Constructivists on their own soil Lozowick formulated his concept of the Americanization of art and began to depict the urban environment in crisply delineated geometric forms Upon his return to the United States Lozowick helped organize the Machine Age Exposition of 1927 and wrote and lectured for the Societe

Anonyme Educational Alliance Art School Menorah Journal and Theatre Arts Monthly He also designed the stage set for Georg Kaiser's Gas one of the first Constructivist productions seen in America With the onset of the Depression Lozowick joined the staff of New Masses the John Reed Club and the American Artists Congress Reflecting a strong commitment to making art relevant to contemporary life Lozowick's work demonstrates his lifelong allegiance to art's role in mediating the modern conflicts between humanity and technology
