Vascular Dysfunction Beyond Pathological Pregnancies. An International Effort Addressed to Fill the Gaps in Latin America Carlos Alonso Escudero, Fernanda Regina Giachini, Carlos Galaviz-Hernandez, Alicia E. Damiano, 2019-11-22

Pregnancy is a physiologically stressful condition that generates a series of functional adaptations in the cardiovascular system. The impact of pregnancy on this system persists from conception beyond birth. Recent evidence suggests that vascular changes associated with pregnancy complications such as preeclampsia, gestational diabetes, growth restriction, autoimmune diseases among others affect the function of the maternal and offspring vascular systems after delivery and may be extended until adult life. Since the vascular system contributes to systemic homeostasis, defective development or function of blood vessels predisposes both mother and infant to future risk for chronic disease. In Latin American countries like other low LIC and middle income countries MIC worldwide the rate of morbi mortality due to both pregnancy complications and cardiovascular diseases have a higher incidence than in high income countries HIC. But investigation in LIC and MIC in particular in Latin America still fall short of what would be expected considering the magnitude of those diseases. Although there are obvious deficiencies in terms of economies and scientific infrastructure between HIC and MIC or LIC, Latin American strength in terms of scientific productivity in this field could be underestimated due to language limitation and publication in journals not indexed in major citation databases resulting in low impact publications. As a result we could speculate that potentially unique features of vascular disease associated to pregnancies complications can be unnoticed in the global scientific community. Then we would like to encourage researchers in vascular biology in which many groups in Latin America have contributed to both better understand vascular dysfunction associated to pregnancy diseases and show the gaps in the literature to overcome this hidden effect of our scientific production. This effort also will homogenize clinical concepts and knowledge that may strengthen the scientific effort in Latin America.
