Cumbria's Prehistoric Monuments Adam Morgan Ibbotson, 2021-07-16 Cumbria is a land built from stone Whether it is Hadrian s Wall Kendal Castle or the beautiful fells of the Lake District for thousands of years people have found a certain elegance and utility in stone Nestled amongst these common relics are a multitude of massive stone monuments built over 3 000 years before British shores were ever touched by Roman sandals Cumbria s megalithic monuments are among Europe s greatest and best preserved ancient relics but are often poorly understood and rarely visited This updated and revised edition of Cumbria s Prehistoric Monuments aims to dispel the idea that these stones are merely mysterious Within this book you will find credible answers using up to date research excavation notes maps and diagrams to explore one of Britain s richest archaeological landscapes Featuring stunning original photography and illustrated diagrams of every megalithic site in the county Adam Morgan Ibbotson invites you to take a journey into a land sculpted by ancient hands New Light on the

Neolithic of Northern England Gill Hey, Paul Frodsham, 2021-01-13 These papers highlight recent archaeological work in Northern England in the commercial academic and community archaeology sectors which have fundamentally changed our perspective on the Neolithic of the area Much of this was new work and much is still not published has been overlooked in the national discourse The papers cover a wide geographical area from Lancashire north into the Scottish Lowlands recognising the irrelevance of the England Scotland Border They also take abroad chronological sweep from the Mesolithic Neolithic transition to the introduction of Beakers into the area The key themes are the nature of transition the need for a much improved chronological framework regional variation linked to landscape character links within northern England and with distant places the implications of new dating for our understanding the axe trade the changing nature of settlement and agriculture the character early Neolithic enclosures the need to integrate rock art into wider discourse The North

Pennines from Prehistory to Present Paul Frodsham, Martin Green, Greg Finch, 2024-11-14 The first comprehensive survey of the archaeology of the North Pennines from Mesolithic to modern times Traces of 10 000 years of human activity survive today including flint scatters at Mesolithic campsites earthworks of prehistoric and later settlements and field systems and extensive remnants of the post medieval miner farmer landscape Pagan Britain Ronald Hutton, 2014-05-13 Britain s pagan past with its mysterious monuments atmospheric sites enigmatic artifacts bloodthirsty legends and cryptic inscriptions is both enthralling and perplexing to a resident of the twenty first century In this ambitious and thoroughly up to date book Ronald Hutton reveals the long development rapid suppression and enduring cultural significance of paganism from the Paleolithic Era to the coming of Christianity He draws on an array of recently discovered evidence and shows how new findings have radically transformed understandings of belief and ritual in Britain before the arrival of organized religion. Setting forth a chronological narrative, Hutton along the way makes side visits to explore specific locations of ancient pagan activity. He includes the well-known sacred sites Stonehenge, Avebury, Seahenge, Maiden Castle, Anglesey, as well as more obscure locations across the mainland and coastal islands. In tireless pursuit of the elusive why of pagan behavior, Hutton astonishes with the breadth of his understanding of Britain's deep past and inspires with the originality of his insights.

Wolf-Beaver Dynamics in the Greater Voyageurs Ecosystem, Minnesota. Neolithic and Bronze Age Landscapes of Cumbria Helen Evans, 2008. In 1933 R. G. Collingwood forwarded a four-headed approach for the advancement of knowledge of Cumbrian prehistory: office work, fieldwork, excavation, and publication. The office work included three main tasks. The first task, the cataloguing and classification of sites and finds. This present study draws on Collingwood's ideas in a number of ways, not least in that in order to interpret Cumbria's prehistoric record at a regional scale it has been necessary to analyse and interpret many disparate strands of evidence. Only through setting out and discussing previously available evidence and adding to it through new fieldwork and excavation is it possible to construct then forward an holistic and integrated regional sequence in line with contemporary academic schema. The analyses undertaken for this study have included the examination of environmental data, the collection and characterisation of lithic scatters, interpretation of the distributions, settings, and architecture of monuments and the analysis of burial and depositional practices Chapter one provides an introduction to Cumbrian landscapes and demonstrates the need for a regional approach towards the county's prehistoric record Drawing on the use of theoretically informed landscape perspectives in the interpretation of prehistoric occupation chapter two sets out the methodological and interpretative frameworks forming the basis of this study Chapter three outlines the character and distribution of environmental and lithic data and develops a model of the likely nature of land use and occupation these represent Chapter four introduces the monument record and outlines methodological approaches to particular monument types Chapter five discusses the classification and interpretation of stone circles and chapter six interprets the character and distribution of all Neolithic and Early Bronze Age monuments Analysis of the landscape settings of monuments chapter seven and evidence for burial and deposition chapter eight illustrate the social and geographical scales at which communities operated over the Neolithic and Bronze Age and how they drew on and appropriated aspects of the natural world

Demonstrating the articulation of themes discussed in earlier chapters chapter nine takes the form of an integrated case study of occupation monument use and depositional practice across the Furness Peninsula The final chapter discusses the nature and identification of regional traditions forwards an integrated regional narrative and concludes with suggestions for further work

An Engraved Landscape: Rock carvings in the Wadi al-Ajal, Libya Tertia Barnett, 2023-02-23 An Engraved Landscape is a contextual analysis of a substantial new corpus of engravings from the Wadi al Ajal situated in the Central Saharan region of south west Libya The wadi is renowned as the heartland of the Garamantian civilization which emerged from local mobile Pastoral communities in the 1st millennium BC and dominated trans Saharan trade and politics for over a thousand years Extensive archaeological and palaeoenvironmental investigations in recent years have provided detailed insight into the later prehistory and protohistory of the wadi and surrounding areas However prior to the fieldwork detailed in this work only a handful of carvings had been recorded in the wadi This work is based on systematic survey conducted between 2004 and 2009 which recorded around 2 500 previously unknown or unpublished engraved and inscribed rock surfaces All forms of engraving whether figurative or surface markings were viewed as significant residues of human interaction with the rock surface and were recorded The resulting database provides an opportunity to analyze the engravings in relation to their changing physical and cultural contexts and the discussion offers a fresh interpretation of Saharan rock art based on this substantial new evidence An Engraved Landscape also captures in detail a unique heritage resource that is currently inaccessible and threatened This record of the fragile engravings provides an important source of information for researchers and students

Circles in Stone Stan Beckensall, 2006 This comprehensive work takes a broad view of what rock art entails covering the history of rock art research and the discovery of many new sites The author illustrates the different symbols and motifs that are found throughout the British Isles and shows where they occur in landscapes and monuments It is a book that captures the excitement of discovery and examines the various theories about the origin use and meaning of rock art Stan Beckensall also explains the problems of accurate conservation recording and display Proceedings of the Prehistoric Society for ..., 2005 Archaeologia Aeliana, Or, Miscellaneous Tracts Relating to Antiquity, 2008 Mining and Quarrying in Neolithic Europe Anne Teather, Peter Topping, Jon Baczkowski, 2019-06-30 The social processes involved in acquiring flint and stone in the Neolithic began to be considered over thirty years ago promoting a more dynamic view of past extraction processes Whether by quarrying mining or surface retrieval the geographic source locations of raw materials and their resultant archaeological sites have been approached from different methodological and theoretical perspectives In recent years this has included the exploration of previously undiscovered sites refined radiocarbon dating comparative ethnographic analysis and novel analytical approaches to stone tool manufacture and provenancing The aim of this volume in the Neolithic Studies Group Papers is to explore these new findings on extraction sites and their products How did the acquisition of raw materials fit into other aspects of Neolithic life and social networks How did these activities merge in creating material items that underpinned cosmology status and identity What are the geographic similarities constraints and variables between the various raw materials and how does the practise of stone extraction in the UK relate to wider extractive traditions in northwestern Europe Eight papers address these questions and act as a useful overview of the current state of research on the topic Prehistoric Rock Art of the West Riding K.
