Second-language Acquisition in Childhood Barry McLaughlin, 1978 Second-language Acquisition in Childhood: Preschool children Barry McLaughlin, 1984 Second Language Acquisition and the Younger Learner Jenefer Philp, Rhonda Oliver, Alison Mackey, 2008 This new volume of work highlights the distinctiveness of child SLA through a collection of different types of empirical research specific to younger learners Characteristics of children's cognitive emotional and social development distinguish their experiences from those of adult L2 learners creating intriguing issues for SLA research and also raising important practical questions regarding effective pedagogical techniques for learners of different ages While child SLA is often typically thought of as simple and often enjoyable and universally effortless in other words as children play the complex portraits of young second language learners which emerge in the 16 papers collected in this book invite the reader to reconsider the reality for many younger learners Chapters by internationally renowned authors together with reports by emerging researchers describe second and foreign language learning by children ranging from pre schoolers to young adolescents in home and school contexts with caregivers peers and teachers as interlocutors

Second-language Acquisition in Childhood: School-age children Barry McLaughlin, 1984 Bilingual Development in Childhood Annick De Houwer, 2021-05-13 In the first decade of life children become bilingual in different language learning environments Many children start learning two languages from birth Bilingual First Language Acquisition In early childhood hitherto monolingual children start hearing a second language through daycare or preschool Early Second Language Acquisition Yet other hitherto monolingual children in middle childhood may acquire a second language only after entering school Second Language Acquisition This Element explains how these different language learning settings dynamically affect bilingual children's language learning trajectories All children eventually learn to speak the societal language but they often do not learn to fluently speak their non societal language and may even stop speaking it Children's and families harmonious bilingualism is threatened if bilingual children do not develop high proficiency in both languages Educational institutions and parental conversational practices play a pivotal role in supporting harmonious bilingual development Second Language Acquisition in Childhood B. McLaughlin, 2013-10-28 First published in 1987 Throughout human history learning a second language has been an important part of the educational process From ancient times to the present school children have had to struggle to learn a second language and in many cases third and fourth languages To be educated meant to know a language other than the language of one's family and community The contemporary American educational system is one of the few in recorded history that allows its products to remain monolingual Current Trends in Child Second Language Acquisition Belma Haznedar, Elena Gavruseva, 2008 This volume presents recent generative research on the nature of grammars of child second language L2 acquirers a learner population whose exposure to an L2 occurs between the ages of 4 to 8 The main goal is to define child L2 acquisition in relation to other types of acquisition such as child monolingual and bilingual acquisition adult L2 acquisition and specific language impairment This comparative perspective opens up new angles for the discussion of currently debated issues such as the role of Universal Grammar in constraining development developmental sequences in L2 maturational influences on the growth of grammar critical period effects for different linguistic domains initial state and ultimate attainment in relation to length of exposure and L1 transfer in relation to age of onset These issues are explored using longitudinal cross sectional and experimental data from L2 children acquiring a range of languages including Dutch English French and Greek

Early Instructed Second Language Acquisition Joanna Rokita-Jaśkow, Melanie Ellis, 2019-01-18 This book provides a holistic overview of what leads to success in foreign language learning at an early age and deepens our understanding of early foreign language learning

The studies use an array of methodological approaches to research learners aged between three and ten as well as their parents and teachers in instructional minimal input settings They describe various ways of organising and promoting very early foreign language learning both through language policy and innovative pedagogy and focus on ways of providing input for second language acquisition which include oral classroom discourse strategies as well as learner development of literacy skills Special attention is given to the necessity to develop critical reading skills the ability to handle multimodal texts and attitudes motivations and behaviours and how these may impact on the teaching and learning process Chapters emphasise that ultimate outcomes depend on extra linguistic environmental factors such as parental involvement and teacher competences These include establishing control in the classroom as well as using appropriate strategies for Negotiation of Meaning and helping learners build positive self concept This book will be of interest to all professionals involved in the teaching of foreign languages to young learners as well as to researchers teacher educators and students working in this area

The Age Factor in Second Language Acquisition David Michael Singleton,Zsolt Lengyel,1995-01-01 This book takes a hard look at some of the assumptions that are customarily made concerning the role of age in second language acquisition The evidence and arguments the contributors present run counter to the notion that an early start in second language learning is of itself either absolutely sufficient or necessary for the attainment of native like mastery of a second language Another theme of the book is a doubt that there is a particular stage of maturity beyond which language learning is no longer fully possible In short the book presents a challenge to those who take it as given that second language learning is inevitably different in its essential nature from language acquisition in the childhood years and that second language knowledge acquired beyond the critical period is in all circumstances and in all respects doomed to fossilize at a non native like level

Language Development and Age Julia Herschensohn,2012-07-19 This book was first published in 2007 The anecdotal view of language acquisition is that children learn language with apparent ease no instruction and in very little time while adults find learning a new language to be cognitively challenging labour intensive and time consuming In this book Herschensohn examines whether early childhood is a critical period for language acquisition after which individuals cannot learn a language as native speakers She argues that a first language is largely susceptible to age constraints showing major deficits past the age of twelve Second language acquisition also shows age effects but with a range of individual differences The competence of expert adult learners the unequal achievements of child learners of second languages and the lack of consistent evidence for a maturational cut off all cast doubt on a critical period for second language acquisition

Child-adult Differences in Second Language Acquisition Stephen D. Krashen,Robin C. Scarcella,Michael H. Long,1982 Introducing Second Language Acquisition Kirsten M. Hummel,2013-12-16 Introducing Second Language Acquisition Perspectives and Practices represents a clear and concise introduction to the main concepts issues and debates in second language acquisition studies aimed specifically at undergraduates encountering the topic for the first time Follows
