Savage Civilisation:

The Evolution of Property from Savagery to Civilization Paul Lafargue, 1890 Naturalist Histories Jamon Alex Halvaksz, Joshua A. Bell, 2024-03-31 From early explorers to contemporary scientists naturalists have examined island flora and fauna of Oceania discovering new species carefully documenting the lives of animals and creating work central to the image of Oceania These discoveries and exploratory moves have had profound local and global impacts Often however local knowledge and communities are silent in the ethnologies and histories that naturalists produce This volume analyzes the ways that Indigenous and non Indigenous naturalists have made island natures visible to a wider audience their relationship with the communities where they work as well as the unique natures that they explore and help make In staking out an area of naturalist histories each contributor addresses the relationship between naturalists and Oceanic communities how these histories shaped past and present place and practices the influence on conservations and development projects and the relationship between scientific and indigenous knowledge The essays span across colonial and postcolonial frames tracing shifts in biological practice from the eighteenth and nineteenth century focus on taxonomy and discovery to the twentieth century disciplinary restructurings and new collecting strategies and contemporary concerns with biodiversity loss conservation and knowledge formation The production of scientific knowledge is typically seen in ethnographic accounts as oppositional contrasting Indigenous and western local and global objective and subjective Such dichotomous views reinforce differences and further exaggerate inequities in the production of knowledge More dangerously value distinctions become embedded in discussions of Indigenous identity rights and sovereignty Contributors acknowledge that these dichotomous narratives have dominated the approach of the scientific community while informing how social scientists have understood the contributions of Pacific communities The essays offer a nuanced gradient as historical narratives of scientific investigation in dialogue with local histories and reveal greater levels of participation in the creation of knowledge The volume highlights how power infuses the scientific endeavor and offers a distinct and diverse view of knowledge production in Oceania Combining senior and emerging international scholars the collection will be of interest to researchers in the social sciences history as well as biology and allied fields The Most Offending Soul Alive Judith M. Heimann, 1999-11-01 An English eccentric and adventurer Tom Harrisson 1911-1976 sought knowledge and renown in a dizzying number of fields while breaking most of the rules of civilized society He was a precursor in the field of modern market research he won the DSO for his World War II service in Borneo he led efforts to save the orangutan the green sea turtle and other endangered species he discovered the oldest modern human skull known at the time This hugely enjoyable story of Harrisson s extravagant controversial life offers a sympathetic and insightful look at a charismatic figure who offended as many people as he impressed at the twilight of colonialism on the fringes of the British empire Evangelical Magazine and Missionary Chronicle ,1878 The Origin of Civilisation and the Primitive Condition of Man Sir John Lubbock, 1871 Writing.

Travel and Empire Peter Hulme, Russell McDougall, 2007-08-29 The British Empire drew on the talents of many remarkable figures whose lives reveal a wonderfully rich involvement with the crucial issues of the period In many cases they left a legacy of travel writing novels biography and ethnography which made important contributions to our knowledge of other cultures Writing Travel and Empire explores the lives and writings of eight such figures including Sir George Grey Gertrude Bell Sir Hugh Clifford and Roger Casement All travelled the Empire from Grey the renowned colonial governor who undertook dangerous journeys to the interior of Australia to Tom Harrisson the emaciated polymath war hero and Arctic explorer whose time in the New Hebrides embraced both cannibalistic rituals and a meeting with film legend Douglas Fairbanks Sr who sought Harrisson out for a Hollywood feature about savage life All saw themselves as writers despite their very different approaches and interests and each was writing against a backdrop of the impending disappearance of indigenous cultures around the world Writing from the margins of what was shortly to become the more formalised discipline of anthropology their work yields interesting insights into both the issues of empire and the ways in which academic disciplines define the boundaries of their subject Embracing themes such as gender and travel racial science the globalisation of native management and the internal colonies and with a geographical coverage that extends from South America to Russia via Africa and the South Seas Writing Travel and Empire will engage all those with an interest in cultural geography anthropology history postcolonial studies biography and travel writing

Military Anthropology Montgomery McFate, 2018-05-01 In almost every military intervention in its history the US has made cultural mistakes that hindered attainment of its policy goals From the strategic bombing of Vietnam to the accidental burning of the Koran in Afghanistan it has blundered around with little consideration of local cultural beliefs and for the long term effects on the host nation s society Cultural anthropology the so called handmaiden of colonialism has historically served as an intellectual bridge between Western powers and local nationals What light can it shed on the intersection of the US military and foreign societies today This book tells the story of anthropologists who worked directly for the military such as Ursula Graham Bower the only woman to hold a British combat command during WWII Each faced challenges including the negative outcomes of exporting Western political models and errors of perception Ranging from the British colonial era in Africa to the recent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan Military Anthropology illustrates the conceptual cultural and practical barriers encountered by military organisations operating in societies vastly different from their own
